Hoover at Panama
Coolidge Knows Costs
About 'Honest' Gamblers
Poor Toad—Like Bears

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright 1928 by Star Co.

ON his trip to South America Mr. Hoover stops first at the Panama Canal. As an engineer interested in such magnificent work, soon to be President and responsible for the canal's safety, Mr. Hoover will have his mind on our inadequate national protection.

Enemy flying machines in a few hours could destroy the locks and make the canal useless, and only fighting planes can protect that canal.

Talking to the American Legion in Washington last night, President Coolidge emphasized in gratifying fashion the importance of war preparation.

He made clear h! belief that it is not necessary to be defenseless to prove yourself a friend of peace.

"If European countries had neglected their defenses it is probable that war would have come much sooner.

"All human experience seems to demonstrate that a country which makes reasonable preparations for defense is less likely to be subject to a hostile attack and less likely to suffer a violation of its rights which might lead to war.

"This is the prevailing attitude of the United States and one which I believe should constantly determine its actions. * * * It is our duty to ourselves, and to the cause of civilization, to the preservation of domestic tranquility, to our orderly and lawful relations with foreign people to maintain an adequate army and navy."

Add to that wise utterance a sufficient number of fighting airplanes, submarines and fast cruisers and the country will have peace of mind. President Coolidge, wise economist, knows that no expense equals the cost of lack of preparation, when war comes. Said he last night:

"It is sometimes represented that this country made a profit out of the war. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

"Up to the present time our own net costs, after allowing for our foreign debt-expectations, are about $36,500,000,000. To retire the balance of our public debt will require about $7,000,000,000 in interest. Our Veterans Bureau and allied expenses are already running at over $500,000,000 a year. * * * Our final cost will run well toward $100,000,000,000 or half the entire wealth of the country when we entered the conflict."

Seven thousand million dollars for interest on our debt, more than twenty-three times what it cost to build the Panama Canal, and one hundred billion dollars for our total war bill.

You could get, for 2 per cent of that amount, absolute safety, PLUS THE RESPECT OF OTHER NATIONS.

Uncle Sam should be able to say to nations that call him "Shylock:"

"Shylock or no Shylock, take notice that I want peace, and can force it. If you doubt it come and see—"

To "be a toad and live upon the vapors of a dungeon" is not much worse than being a bear in Wall Street just now.

Think of last week's closing. In "the Street" 3,266,090 shares were sold in two hours, all records broken. The Hoover market, as it is called, ran wild; brokers were swamped.

And the worst of it for bears is the lack of anything in sight to stop the boom.

Four years of boom ahead of us is enough to make any bear want to jump into Mt. Aetna's crater. And heaven only knows what Herbert Hoover may invent to increase the boom.

He will spend money, you may depend on that. And wise spending is the life of prosperity.

One of the "big gamblers" died in New York the other day, accused of welching, murdered by another gambler.

It is customary for big gamblers to have themselves called "Honest John" or honest something else. The word honest makes it easier to rob fools.

Revelations in connection with the killing of one conspicuous in the "honest" fraternity should enlighten young fools and old that squander money on gambling.

One who knows the dead man and his methods says concerning him: He met at a prize fight a certain unfortunate young rich fool, eager to bet on one of the fighters. The actual odds were 2 to 1.

The gambler said to the fool, "Don't bet any such crooked odds. How much do you want to bet. I'll take your money, even, no odds."

The fool bet $500 and won, from one whom he described as "one honest gambler.' The gambler purposely let him win at half the real odds.

Later that "honest gambler" took more than half a million from the rich young fool, whose name is omitted out of sympathy for his relatives. The fool is now in the insane asylum and the "honest gambler" is in his grave, sent there by other gamblers for cheating them.

KILLER HAD 'INSIDE AID' IN PRISON

The supplying of a revolver and 50 rounds of ammunition to Charles Trippi, Jr., 21-year-old robber, who killed Turnkey Frederick Pfluger while attempting to shoot his way to liberty at State Prison is considered an "inside" job

Guards at the prison will probably have the grim satisfaction of strapping the youthful desperado in the electric chair for slaying Pfluger, the best-loved of their comrades.

Trippi has talked freely about his attempt and on the strength of his own admission the Grand Jury will be asked to indict him tomorrow for first degree murder, punishable only by death in this State.

But while he alternately paced and relaxed in the inky darkness of a solitary confinement cell today prison authorities were primarily concerned with solving the mystery of how he got the gun and bullets

CAREFULLY SEARCHED

It was at first supposed that a visitor smuggled them to him, but it was pointed out that this is very nearly impossible, for visitors are so thoroughly searched and Pfluger, a veteran and a man known for his thoroughness, had much to do with such searching.

With this in mind the authorities launched an inquiry with the presumption that someone in a position of trust was the agent of death

Drugs were discovered in the prison last week, it was disclosed today

FULLER THRILLS CROWD IN HONOR TO WAR DEAD

The "divine right of kings" and ability of one man or one nation to plunge the world into war passed with the signing of the armistice, Governor Fuller asserted today at the Armistice Day observance on Boston Common.

Hundreds of persons attended exercises at the Parkman Bandstand, from where "Taps" sounded at 11 a. m., followed by a three-minute period of silence in honor of the war dead.

Declaring that differences between nations should be submitted to arbitration, Governor Fuller said:

"Are we not willing to endorse the principle of arbitration rather than armed conflict? I fail to see why that is not an agreement that any nation can make with honor.

Fenway Park, Nov. 12—Joe McKenney, 24-year-old Boston College grid mentor, matched wits with his former master, Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, Fordham mentor, before a crowd of 30,000 here this afternoon.

McKenney's Eagles have yet to meet defeat this season and they were determined to overcome Cav's maroon-clad athletes.

They will have to show plenty of class to win, for Mr. Cavanaugh knows all that McKenney does and a little bit more. However, his material is not as good as that which his former star pupil has at his command and for this reason Boston College is a 10 to 8 choice.

Ideal football weather prevailed.

CHARGE M'CABE SAW ROTHSTEIN SHOT DOWN

Hunt for the slayer or slayers of Arnold Rothstein, corpus delicti in New York's "stud poker murder mystery," turned to Boston today when detectives sought to verify a declaration that "Tough Willie" McCabe, another gambler, was on a Savannah-to-Boston boat at the time of the slaying.

McCabe insists that he was on the boat and landed in Boston, and its is understood that radiograms addressed to one McCabe and mentioning the name "Rothstein" were received on the boat.

A person on the liner, questioned after the boat reched Boston, said a man calling himself McCabe had exhibited a roll which he said contained "one hundred grand."

Some of the New York detectives engaged in the hunt for the murderers scoff at McCabe's assertions however, and insist that they have evidence pointing to his presence with others, in the Park Central Ho-

AID SPEEDS TO LINER OFF VIRGINIA CAPES

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Lamport & Holt line announced at 12:55 o'clock this afternoon that the passengers of its sinking steamer, the Vestris, had taken to the lifeboats. The Vestris was sinking about 300 miles off Hampton Roads. As the passengers were reported taking to the boats, it was announced that the Japanese freighter Ohio Maru, from Seattle for New York, was standing by ready to take them aboard.

The passenger liner Vestris was sinking today 250 miles off the Virginia capes, and 350 persons were either going down with her or tossing about in lifeboats on an angry sea.

Among urgent appeals for assistance, the liner's radio operator flashed word that the passengers and crew would have to take to the boats "any minute now."

With their turbines roaring at top speed, twelve vessels are closing in on the escene in accordance with the code of the sea, their crews racing against time and the elements to save 140 passengers and 210 members of the crew of the doomed ship.

An unconfirmed report from Bermuda says that the Japanese steamer Ohio Maru was standing by the Vestris. Previous advices, however, had placed this vessel 100 miles away.

The Navy Department ordered Admiral H. A. Wiley at Norfolk to render all aid possible and a cruiser will dash to the sinking vessel, but merchant and passenger ships are expected to reach there first.

The Yankee Arrow was believed by navy officials to be the nearest vessel and it was estimated that five hours would elapse between the time of the message, telling of preparations to desert th eVestris, and her arrival on the scene.

The plight of the Vestris, a British vessel, bound from New York to the Barbadoes and South American ports, was disclosed in frantic S. O. S. calls picked up in Boston by Tropical Radio and the navy yard and followed by this message:

"S. S. Vestris needs immediate help. Sinking slowly. Will have to take to lifeboats any minute now."

Broadcass in the eastern United States were stopped. Next a message filtered through revealing that the Vestris was riding on her beam's ends, her starboard decks awash and her list estimated at 32 degrees.

Crackling radio signals flashed from ship to ship and between shore stations as efforts were made to work out exactly the position of the sinking liner. The Vestris interrupted its continual S. O. S. calls to participate in this dramatic computation.

It was figured tentatively that her position was 37:25 north latitude and 71:08 west longitude.

Five Coast Guard vessels are among those dashing to that spot on the Atlantic and the number of merchant ships diverging on the same point was increasing at the rate of two or three an hour.

Seeks to Gain Shore

The bitter cold was considered the chief enemy of those aboard the Vestris if they are forced to ride the sea long in lifeboats. There are many women among the passengers.

The cause of the liner's trouble is not known definitely but it is believed that heavy gales encountered since she left New York last Saturday caused a shifting of her cargo.

The Voltaire of the Lamport & Holt line, which is also the company that owns the Vestris, is in the same vicinity en route toward New York and is one of the vessels going to the aid of the Vestris.

Others are the Santa Barbara of the Grace Line; the tanker Yankee Arrow; the Ohio Maru; the Creole of the Morgan line; the German steamship Berlin and the American Shipper. The San Juan which aided in establishing the correct position, is also understood to be on the way.

The Japanese steamer was reported 100 miles away; the Yankee Arrow, 70 miles; the Berlin, 160 miles, the Santa Barbara, 140 miles, the Creole, 115 miles.

The captain of the Vestris made a desperate effort to approach a harbor before giving in to the tempestuous weather.

Besides a general cargo the liner carried 1097 sacks of mail. Her ports of destination, besides the Barbodoes, were Rio Janeiro, Montevideo and Buenos Aires.

In 1915 the Vestris had a narrow escape from a German cruiser, the Karlsruhe, while enroute from South America to New York. It caught fire in 1919 but made harbor in the British West Indies.

Nearly an hour after the message regarding preparations to take the boats the radio operator of the stricken ship was still sending SOS calls, appealing to all vessels to come to the liner's aid.

Shore stations heard the Vestris exchange signals with the San Juan, which replied that she would arrive alongside in about four hours.

for the first time, and the solution of the narcotics mystery may be the answer to the gun riddle, in the opinion of the investigators.

Trippi told Police Inspector James Dennessey, homicide expert, that he found the gun and ammunition under a bench in No. 1 hosiery shop. That was where Trippi worked.

Officials do not doubt that he "found" them there, but they are convinced that he knew they had been placed there by someone to whom Trippi or his pals had paid the price.

Turnkey Pfluger's widow, Mrs. Edith Sutherland Pfluger, is in a state of collapse at her home on Brantwood rd., Arlington. There are no children. Mrs. Louis Pfluger, of Allen st., Cambridge, the slain man's mother, has been seriously ill for several weeks and she suffered a relapse when informed of her son's death.

Two young women, who said they were sisters of Trippi, called at the prison today asking details of yesterday's affair. Both burst into tears when Warden Hogsett refused them permission to see the prisoner. One of the women held a baby in her arms.

Suffolk county officials gathering facts for the district attorney to place before the grand jury tomorrow questioned guards and other prisoners today. The grand jury session will be a special one for this particular case.

"I'm in for a long stretch (15 to 18 years)," Trippi told Dennessey at the prison hospital, where he was recovering from injuries received in his vicious hand-to-hand tussle with one guard after another.

"I wanted to get out bad. It was worth a long chance, wasn't it? Yes, it was worth a—long chance and I took it."

The gun was a .38 calibre weapon and Trippi had his regulation prison cap full of the cartridges.

Other speakers on Boston Common included Mayor Nichols, Dr. William H. Griffin, commander of the State department, American Legion; Lieut. Henry B. During the three-minute period in which the throng stood at attention, 21 guns were booming the national salute on the playground.

PARADE TO COMMON.

Preceding the exercises, Governor Fuller was escorted to the Parkman Bandstand in a brief parade. His escorts included Col. Julian L. Chamberlain, field artillery; Capt. Theodore Storer of his personal staff and a detail from the First Corps Cadets.

Armistice Day exercises were held also in many cities and towns throughout the state, where the legislated legal holiday was observed more generally than in Boston.

Quincy had a parade, followed by presentation of a bronze tablet by the city to the American Legion. The tablet, set up on the Adams Academy grounds at Hancock and Dimock sts., carries the names of the 67 Quincy boys who died in the war.

In Arlington, Armistice Day was observed with a parade and exercises on Spy Pond Field.

HOLIDAY IN ARLINGTON.

A general holiday was declared and all stores were closed. The line of parade was thronged with spectators, who braved the cold wind to cheer the marchers.

There were two divisions. In the line of march were veterans of the Civil, Spanish and World Wars, gold star mothers in autos, boy scouts and a delegation of Red Cross workers.

Lynn had a parade of 10,000 men and women; Salem saw 6000 march. Lowell, Peabody, Beverly, Gloucester are among those communities that held big processions to the north of Boston. Winchester, Wakefield, Somerville and Arlington had parades in the metropolitan area.

In Abington there was a tri-town parade, with veterans and patriotic and civic bodies from Abington, Rockland and Whitman joining in the procession.

Fitchburg dedicated its World War memorial at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at which exercises United States Senator Walsh was the orator.

QUIGLEY DROPS COP FOR GRAFT ON BOOTLEGS

The fact that a Chelsea policeman was arrested for drunkenness and locked up in the Chelsea police station, was revealed today when Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of that city announced he had suspended Patrolman John Reddington.

The announcement included the discharge of Patrolman Robert A. Eaven, who was charged with taking $3 a week from three different places selling liquor in Chelsea.

The arrest of Reddington and subsequent appearance in Chelsea court were kept a secret, but with the mayor's action the details leaked out. It was learned that last Saturday, Reddington, who has been in the police department five years, was found on Marginal st., as a result of telephone complaints.

The patrolman, who was off duty in civilian clothes, was picked up by Officers Smalley and Holt, and taken to police headquarters. Chief Charles M. Finn, who was present, ordered Reddington booked for drunkenness and locked up.

Later the officer was admitted to bail by Clerk Joseph Curley, and was given a secret hearing in Chelsea District Court. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness and his case was placed on file. He has 10 days to apply for a hearing on the suspension.

2 DYING AFTER DOUBLE AUTO CRASH

Following a wild ride down Tremont st. at what police said was a 70-mile an hour clip and during which their machine hit a police automobile and then a taxicab, finally being wrecked, two men are dying in City Hospital.

They are Allen Miles, 28, of 37 Falmouth st., Back Bay, and Richard Howe, 22, of 71 Mozart st., Jamaica Plain.

The men were injured after Sergt. Ryan, with Patrolmen Moore and Gardner, in a police automobile chased the men after their machine hit the fender of the police car while it was cruising Tremont st., near the Elks Hotel.

The machine continued along, the police said, traveling at a terrific clip. It crashed into a parked taxicab near the Waldorf Lunch, near Stuart st.

The operator of the cab was seated in his machine at the time. His head was jerked backwards by the impact and smashed the glass separating the driver's seat from the tonneau. The driver, stunned, got out of the cab and disappeared. Police were searching for him to extend him aid.

STORM ADDS TO TERRORS AT MT. ETNA

Rome, Nov. 12 (AP)—Five thousand people are homeless, 700 houses have been destroyed and nearly 3000 acres of farmland have been laid waste in the Mount Etna region, said a report issued today by Signor Giuriati, minister of public works, who returned from the danger zone over the week end.

Riposto, Sicily, Nov. 12 (INS)—A storm, which swept southeastern Sicily today, added to the misery of thousands of refugees who have been driven from their homes by the avalanche of lava from the crater of Mt. Etna.

Heavy rain fell, throwing up clouds of steam as it came in contact with the rivers of fire flowing down the side of the volcano. This moisture formed great curtains of fog through which lightning struck with terrifying suddenness.

The thick atmosphere prevented the wind from carrying off the cinders and dust and clouds of these settled down over the refugee camps.

The streams of lava continue to widen and it is now feared that the eruption may continue for another week. At times the flow dies down only to burst forth in renewed fury after a lull.

The ruined town of Carrabba now stands like an island in a sea of hardening lava. In the Mascali district the fiery flood is within a mile of the Ionian Sea.

Although Nunziata was nearly destroyed a lone Fascist soldier volunteered to remain behind to "guard" the memorial to the war dead, which was to have been unveiled this week.

Special services were held in all the churches throughout Sicily on Sunday when prayers were offered asking for a cessation of the flood of destruction from the volcano. In some places shrines were set up in the fields for outdoor worship.

Scientists consider Mt. Etna still a menace. It is estimated that only a third of the volcano's potential force had been spent, and it was feared that this might be the prelude to a greater disaster.

AUSTRIA CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY OF REPUBLIC

Vienna, Nov. 12 (AP)—While most of the world was celebrating the tenth anniversary of the termination of the World War, Republican Austria today commemorated the tenth anniversary of the death of the mighty Imperial Austro-Hungarian Empire from whose ashes sprang the tiny but lusty Austrian Republic of today.

Only the Austrian monarchists and the Socialists participated wholeheartedly in today's ceremonies. The higher ranks of Austria would like [illegible] little to be [illegible] thousand persons [illegible] and [illegible] various [illegible] were [illegible]

AIMEE SPENT $800,000 FOR 'HER FREEDOM'

Los Angeles, Nov. 12 (AP)—Presentation of evidence to the county grand jury indicating that more than $800,000 was spent to free Aimee Semple McPherson of conspiracy charges arising out of her sworn story of having been kidnaped two years ago brought the Angelus Temple evangelist's case to the forefront today in the investigation of alleged corruption in the Los Angeles district attorney's office.

And once more the name of Kenneth G. Ormiston, erstwhile radio man at Angelus Temple, was brought into the picture. After the titian-haired woman evangelist had been formally charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice by telling a false story to the grand jury about her disappearance, Ormiston was named as the man with whom she had spent several days in hiding in a cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Now Ormiston has been summoned to appear before the grand jury.

Mrs. McPherson was held for trial after a preliminary hearing, but the charges were dismissed by District Attorney Asa Keyes, who told the court that there was insufficient evidence to convict.

Keyes and several others recently were indicted on charges of bribery. The district attorney was accused of having accepted money for dropping charges against or permitting the acquittal of certain persons charged with felonies.

Attaches of the Grand Jury said that Ormiston probably would be called tomorrow as a witness in the resumption of the inquiry.

Documents indicating the expenditure of more than $800,000 in the McPherson case were presented to the Grand Jury by newspapermen to whom they had been given by the evangelist's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. Mrs. Kennedy formerly handled the financial affairs of Angelus Temple and was a co-defendant in the conspiracy case.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

Dearest Anne:

Do let's have a little "tea talk" some day this week, when we can sit by the fireside with only the dancing shadows for company and tell each other our precious secrets. I have so many wonderful bits of gossip for you that I am going to begin right here in this letter. Do you mind? I heard only today that are the very last breath in color styles, and I found the gayest assortment in Mangel's, 449 Washington St. for only $9.95! Can you imagine a beautiful pansy-colored dress, made in the very smartest style and best material for such a low price? There is also a lovely, creamy tan, which I call "Tearose," made of georgette, with that alluring new bertha collar, and a vital green-colored flat crepe frock, the shade of a newly unfolded leaf, so striking underneath a fur coat. Mangel's surprise offer this week is a silk tweed—yes, my dear, the one sketched—silk tweed in gray or tan for only $5.00!

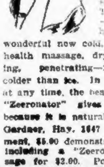
Here's a Bit of information. Do you know that the slightest tendency toward superfluous hair increases with age? So, if you begin to notice tiny lines of hair growth appearing about your face and chin, you had better consult my friend, Miss Elizabeth Sparkes, an electric needle specialist, immediately. There is no charge for consultation, and Miss Sparkes cordially invites you to her office, Room 602, 120 Tremont St. Superfluous hair that is once removed by the electric needle never returns. Miss Sparkes' treatment is painless, and her prices reasonable. For appointment call Han. 7392.

"The Best for Less"

is a reputation that the San Fan Hosiery Co., 110 Tremont St., Room 326, has justly earned. This shop makes a specialty of $1.00 hosiery, and has a beautifully clear, silk-to-the-top chiffon stocking, and a service weight, with lisle garter top at this price that are marvels. There is also a fine quality extra heavy service weight for $1.39, and a finest grade, pure silk sheerest chiffon stocking, picot-top and with the new narrow heel that is exquisite and priced only $1.49. These stockings are all full-fashioned and first quality and come in all the desired shades. There is plenty of "Boulevard" that popular veiled shade for either brown or black shoes.

A Beautiful Gift

You will appreciate the wonder of the "Zeeronator" as a Christmas Gift. To the gentleman, for the better shave, a "Zeeronator" massage is a veritable boon. It overcomes fatigue and increases endurance for the mental worker under constant strain. To the ladies—you may have this wonderful new cold, beauty and health massage, dry, invigorating, penetrating—25 degrees colder than ice. In any climate at any time, the beauty which a "Zeeronator" gives is lasting because it is natural. Call Mrs. Gardner, Hay. 1647 for appointment, $5.00 demonstration facial, including a "Zeeronator" Massage for $2.00. Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910.



"Lady born, and lady bred Dresses her feet before her head."

My dear old Grandmother instilled this lesson into my youthful mind, Anne, and I have never forgotten it, so being in dire need of shoes today, your Priscilla betook herself to Thayer McNeil & Co., 47 Temple Pl., and bought an extremely smart pair of shoes instead. They are made of suede, in that brown shade, which seems to be replacing all other browns, and are trimmed with brown lizard calf. The heel is that delightfully graceful height, which encourages walking and lends suave simplicity to the entire shoe. This model also comes in black, and is priced $12.50—a perfect fitting shoe, Anne, fashioned by skillful shoe men.

Ahem, Your Priscilla has interviewed a buyer! Yes, indeed, at Wolf's, 339 Washington St., and oh, I gleaned such good news for women who take care of their menfolk's needs. For instance, I learned that Wolf's is making special preparations for their women trade during the Christmas holidays, and you are invited to browse about their store now with no obligation to buy. A special offer of $1.75 or 3 for $5.00 is being made on a medium weight union suit, ecru or white, in that well-known brand of Forest Hills underwear, and comes with long or short sleeves, regular or stout sizes. This weight, I am told, is the one most men prefer. Isn't this an ideal Christmas suggestion?

Burt's Sale Price of $8.75 for all their shoes, even those formerly marked as high as $10.50 and $13.50 is drawing innumerable wise buyers to their shop at 17 West St. Everyone knows Burt's reputation for shoes, and this special sale which begins today and lasts all week includes 41 styles. There are the colored kid and suede shoes so popular for ensemble detail; patent leather with huge cut steel buckles; brown suede with cut bronze buckles; black satin opera pumps; plain and silver trimmed; practical semi-formal patent leathers with medium heels, and many others. Don't forget, Anne—this price of $8.75 is for this week only!

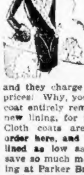
If the End of your beloved summer permanent wave has at last been snipped off by the barber's shears and you are ready for a new one, the Beauty Salon of Houghton & Dutton Co. is offering a special winter price of $5.50 for their glorious Frederics Vita Tonic permanent waves—a scientific method which will not destroy the natural oil in your hair. This price includes as many curls as are required, shampoo and setting wave. Houghton & Dutton operators are expert hair dyers and streaked or faded hair can be restored to its natural color by Inecto (Notox), a safe dye that can not be detected when properly applied. Beauty Salon, 2nd floor.

New Coats from Old

Of course you have heard of Parker Bros., the famous furriers at 110 Tremont St., Room 309, who do such wonderful work in renovating old fur coats. There are upwards of three hundred happy women about town whose old fur coats have been made new by these skilled workmen, and they charge such reasonable prices! Why, you can have a fur coat entirely remade including a new lining, for from $40 to $60. Cloth coats are also made to order here, and coats can be relined as low as $12. You will save so much money on remodeling at Parker Bros. that you can easily afford one of their smartly-styled dresses for the difference.



The Spirit of Today

for "something very nice, but not too costly," leads us again to the Spanish Galleries of Chandler & Co., whose reputation for prices with quality has sped through the circles of fashion-loving women and leads them there whenever they seek for style with thrift. A particularly well-groomed woman whom I met there today wanted to see "something different" in a tweed, and the one she selected is the one I have sketched—something entirely new—"Ascot Tweed" it is called—sort of a jersey-tweed weave in afghan brown flecked with tiny threads of tan. It is a most slenderizing style, and an exceptionally fine value at $12.75. There are also some lovely Dunwoodie crepes in plain colors at this price. The new photo silk tweeds in blue and tan—great favorites with the well-dressed woman—are distinctive values at $15. The popular charcoal prints, also at this price, offer a charming novelty in the all-day dress. For the more formal occasions there are some well-chosen dresses in crepe and crepe satin, in the popular blue, wine, brown shades and black, and are most interestingly styled—some with generously pleated skirts, some trimmed with bows, and others tiered and draped on one side. All these women's dresses come in sizes 36 to 40 and are marvelous buys at $15.

"I Am a New Cinderella"

Helene says—"I wished and wished that I might have a beautiful fur coat this winter but didn't know how I could stretch my budget to buy it—and then I found out about Scott's and their Unique Fur Club—and now I have my fur coat! I have already worn it to one or two games, and never dreamed that style and comfort could be such agreeable companions. I would surely advise anyone whose knowledge of furs is limited to go to Scott Furriers, Inc., New England's Largest Fur Establishment, located at 69 Summer St., because they have some wonderful sales people there who understand furs thoroughly and who will give you their frank and honest advice in the selection of your coat. Their coats range in price from $90 to $795, and include all kinds of the finest furs in up-to-the-minute styles. Scott's does not carry imitation skins. They have a wonderfully economical plan for making payments that places fur coats within the reach of everyone. (1) You may pay cash. (2) You may open a 30, 60 or 90-day charge account when you take the coat out, or (3) you may join Scott's Unique Fur Club and make small weekly or monthly payments while wearing your coat. Scott Furriers are open every evening until 9 p. m. for your convenience.

The Eternal Feminine

in us all, Anne, calls for adornment, and while perhaps not so barbaric as that of our ancient ancestors the modernistic trend of necklaces reveals some unexpected designs. Filene's Costume Jewelry Section is replete with all sorts of less expensive stones, modernistic and antique in cut, and in combinations, in prices that range from $1.00 to $10.00. If you have the blues—that is—if your winter costume is that regal shade of blue—then there is a distinctive rondel necklace for you of lapis with gold, priced $3, that will simply "make" your ensemble. Another striking design is a flat, carved jade (imitation) set in gold and priced $2. The new light blue stone, called "Chalcedony," is very effective, and our long-lost favorite—the turquoise—returns with renewed glory. The opaque stones—amber, carnelian and carnival red—still hold forth in the popular choker and carved front plaque designs. Rose quartz and crystal, plain or combined with pearl, are daintily alluring on a dark-colored frock, and the amethyst crystal lends sweet dignity to the wearer. Your costume jewelry should accentuate your type, and you will revel in the varied selection offered at Filene's.

What Became of the Hair?

With the skin soft and smooth and without telltale mark, all traces of hair have been removed forever from the face, arms and legs of many women by the scientific process of electrolysis, which is neither harmful nor unpleasant. Hair is not a surface condition that can be remedied by depilatories or tweezers. They are merely temporary reliefs. The root of the hair can only be reached by the electric needle, and James Brooks, electric needle specialist, 100 Boylston St., will be pleased to consult with you as to your individual case. Tel. Lib. 4466.

Wake Up

your sleepy skin with a refreshing Komplex Facial. You will love the "tingly" feeling, and your skin will glow with a clear transparency. Gilchrist's Beauty Shop, third floor, specializes in these contouration treatments, which lift sagging muscles and restore a youthful appearance. They are priced at $2.00. Gilchrist's permanent waves, wide and rippling, which gave so much satisfaction during the summer months, are priced at $10 for either Frederics or Paris style methods. This Beauty Shop so centrally located is one of the handiest and best places in town for hair bobbing—and only 50 cents.

Posner's—Well Known as "The men's stores where women like to shop" is offering a wonderful value for women during their 32nd Anniversary Sale, in a new sport stocking made of celanese and worsted—a remarkable combination that gives warmth with a slender, silky style, which insures trim-fitting ankles. These stockings are regular $1.00 value but are specially priced at 79c during this anniversary sale. They give excellent service and retain their softness even after many washings, and come in the smartest combination shades: sandalwood jade, grey-nude, beige-brown, gray-black and maroon-beige. Posner's three stores are located at School St. (at City Hall Ave.) Washington St. (at Avery) and 38 Court St.

The Smart Thing to Do this season is to have your hat moulded to your head. You are sure then of getting an individual style that will be most becoming, and—a sure, snug, fit. Rita had an adorable hat made by the Simon Sisters, Room 87, 41 Winter St., who are especially adept in copying famous Paris imports, and originating new styles. Their hats are all of the best imported soleil felt, with a soft, sleeky finish and are unusual values at $7.50. There are also some extremely pert little ready-to-wear hats in the newest color combinations and flattering lines, specially priced at $5.

What a Glorious Ride

We had in Peggy's pride and joy—her new Whippet Coach—and what a car! It drives so easily she never tires, and its improved modern engineering gives assurance of a perfect trip—no exasperating breakdowns along the road. Inside there is plenty of room for complete relaxation and the deeply cushioned upholstery gives utter comfort. Its fleet, low lines are extremely smart, and it is finished in harmonious lacquered colors. The Boston Whippet Knight Corp., Kenmore Sq., have placed the exceptionally low price of $605 on this model and offer very attractive terms. I know where my Christmas Savings check is going, Anne—as initial payment on a new Whippet Coach!

"Curlilocks"

would surely be popular today Anne, for curls have at last come into their own—we hope—to stay. Our modern miss, realizing at last the lure in a tiny tendril has renounced the sleek boyish type and resorts to the utter femininity of curls. L. E. Cunningham, in the Superior Service Beauty Shoppe, 561 Boylston St., established 20 years, is offering a special price of $8 to $10 during the winter months for permanents that give the highly favored deep, loose wave, or the tight marcel! You may have your choice of Eugene, Frederics, Nestle or Bonat methods, and all waves are wrapped for ringlet ends or Mae Murray curls. For appointment call Back Bay 9089.

Dainty Undies

and alluring negligees are so dear to a woman's heart, my Anne. The Gay Silk Underwear Co., Room 74, 41 Winter St., make all these lovely, lacey underthings right in their own work rooms and you will be thrilled with their assortment of silk negligees in black and colors at $4.50 and up, enchanting silk pajamas, all colors, $4.95 and up, dance sets, $2.95 and up. Their sheer, pure silk chiffon stockings, first quality, at $1.00 are beautiful, and there are others higher priced. The Gay Silk Underwear Co. make underwear to order and you are cordially invited to visit their shop and browse about for Christmas suggestions.

The Wedding March

leads us not to the altar today, dear Anne, but to Mendelsohn's Dress Shop at 59 Temple Place, where they rent those lovely bridal dresses and party gowns. Mendelsohn's has just revised their stock again of slightly used evening gowns and has selected another lot which they offer for sale at $5.00. Just think of the many changes of party frocks are satins, taffetas and georgettes, bouffant style, with the uneven hemline, sophisticated rhinestone beaded models and some that are trimmed with opalescent. There are also some gorgeous brand new evening gowns in rainbow shades for sale.

Um-mmm—Pancakes!

Ethel says she won her way into Tom's heart with her pancakes and ever since they have become their "Great American Breakfast." She cooks them without the least trouble because she has one of those new Alum-o-ware griddles, made of thick, fine cast aluminum, which she bought at Jordan Marsh Company (third floor Annex) for $3.95. It is truly a magic griddle—requires no grease—therefore—no smoke. And then—the surprise feature—just turn it over, and you have a broiler on which to cook your steaks, chops and fish, which though cooked on top of your gas stove, will have all the delicious flavor of oven-broiled foods—when cooked the Alumo-way!

Encore! Encore!

So great is the demand made upon Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St. by us all, Anne, that Miss Evelyn has had to replenish her stock this week, and is offering four distinct bargains. The first is a new assortment of swanky silks and wool tweeds in both girlish and grown-up styles at $5. Her famous 2 for $15 price this week includes wool tweeds and plain colored silks, some with the new bertha collar, with tiers of pleats or velvet. At $10 there are some exceptionally high grade tweeds and silks in sizes up to 46, and I could scarcely resist an adorable fluttering chiffon, with a detachable jacket, trimmed with bows—at $12.95!

"Like Lotus Buds"

When I hear this song, Anne, I always think of your hands—they are so soft and white—with your graceful fingers tapering to starry tips. It is your fingernails I envy most, Anne. They always glow with a soft rose-tinted lustre, and I know it is because you use that wonderful Nail Polish prepared by J. Lesquendieu and sold exclusively by Meyer Jonasson Co. It will not burn your fingernails, nor does it chip or change color. It does not congeal, and the package, including remover, is priced $2. It comes in three shades—rose, rose-pale and rouge. To keep your hands soft and white, Savon le Reine des Cremes, 50 cents a cake, is marvelous.

The Hat's the Thing

For matron or miss it is the same sweet story—"I must have a hat." Bennett's Wholesale Millinery, 127 Tremont St. (sixth floor) has a wonderful assortment of smart hats for women in dignified lines that are not too matronly. The stunning model I sketched is a draped brown velvet, with heckle feathers sweeping down the side. It is priced at only $2.95! There are other fashionably designed matrons' hats also at this price, in satin, and satin and velvet combinations, some having metallic inlays. For misses there is a marvelous group of fascinating shapes and shades, in soleil felt, regular $3.50 and $4 values, now priced at $1.44!

And now, my sweet Anne, with the days growing shorter, I can picture already the frosty windowpanes with cheery Christmas wreaths and candle-lights a-flickering through. This picture will soon become a reality, for Christmas is not far away, and I know that you are starting to look about for gift suggestions that will express the personality of your own delightful self. I started my gift-buying today, when I noticed so many of the shops with Christmas boxes on display. It is so much nicer to do it early, Anne, when you have lots of time to find just the very gift that will speak of "you" to that "very particular" friend.

Devotedly yours,

Priscilla

SALE OF DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN'S HANDIWORK AT RITZ-CARLTON OPENS TOMORROW, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Christmas Gifts of All Kinds and for All Ages Being Displayed

HAVE YOU THAT BUGABOO OF THE HOLIDAY SEASON, the "Christmas List," staring you in the face? Take it into the Ritz-Carlton tomorrow morning. Let it encounter all the lovely things the Soldiers' Shop sets out for sale, and I'll wager it will vanish into the mists of yesterday and let you have a peaceful mind right up to Nuit de Noel itself. Annually the Ritz extends the courtesy of its hotel to the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange staff. And annually that energetic coterie sets out for sale as amazingly comprehensive, colorful, serviceable, beautiful and frivolous a stock any specialty shop ever offered.

YOU CAN FIND "SOMETHING" FOR GRANDPERE, "SOMETHING" for grandmere, a most delightful "something" for the bride or the bud happening to be included on the gift list. And as for the very young things, the wooden toys and jointed animals—curiously fashioned and giddily painted—will keep their new owners on good terms with old Kris Kringle an entire twelvemonth. A piece of pewter, a leather purse, a rainbow scarf, some exquisite bit of handwrought costume jewelry, linens for the housewife and bright woolens for the winter sports all are there. The stock will delight you, amaze you, and open wide your purse, even though Armistice Day observance had not already had that ameliorating effect.

THOSE GIFTED WITH A SOCIAL CLAIRVOYANCE PREDICT the most dazzling of successes for a lovely blonde debutante now in town from Chicago Miss Abby Beveridge, daughter of Mrs. Albert Beveridge and the former senator from Indiana, moves graciously through local social mazes while pleasant things are being done for her here, and anticipates in Chicago a brilliant progression, for is she not ranked as one of the "Big Three" in buddom in the City by the Lake? As a Chicago debutante she is distinguished from many of her contemporaries because of family connections linked to the past social history of the Windy City.

WERE ONE TO DELVE INTO A PAST DECADE'S FASHIONABLE amusements one would find that Miss Beveridge's maternal grandparent, Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy, was a leader well beloved in Chicago's four hundred a score of years ago. The Eddy parties had a finish and an elegance quite unknown in this day of somewhat helter skelter entertaining, with stag lines of unknown (to their hostess) young men and invitations going out over he wire personally rather than sedately engraved and by post or the hand of the family footman. Miss Beveridge inherits her blonde charm from her mater, who was Miss Catherine Eddy and a belle in her own coming out season.

THE POLITE WORLD OF UP-TO-DATE ART, THAT LOVES ITS private views and never neglects the opportunity to sip a cup of tea in aesthetic gallery quiet, has the Doll and Richards gallery on its engagement book today. Society is welcoming to its bosom a charming new artist of local extraction and one very much at home in the upper stratas—Mrs. Thelma Hall Herrick, quondam leader of the Vincent Club, persona grata with the Senior Dance set and a well-poised young matron now turning a talent for oils and lines to good account.

SAILING IN ON THE HIGH tide of honeymoon happiness, conveyed by the Cedric, come Mr. and Mrs. Everett Morss, Jr., after their European wedding journey. Mrs. Morss was Miss Anne Wentworth, and had a lovely wedding in the ancient meeting house in Milton, where many important brides before her have said their marriage lines. The combined Strafford Wentworth-Everett Morss families were on the dock to give warm greeting home to the newlyweds, who have a Commonwealth ave. apartment awaiting their first housekeeping and entertaining experiments.

THE ROBERT HALLOWELLS of Readville have their names on the list of a recently incoming steamer. The Rochambeau, I believe it was, which brought them to home port over autumn seas after a foreign flitting that had to do with leaving a junior daughter at school abroad. Miss Eliza Bowditch, daughter of Mrs. E. Sohier Welch, is a schoolgirl with a delightful prospect before her. She sails away in a month or two to see the world as they do it these days, via the luxurious cruise, in the most modern method of education. What sub-debutante but would relish this substitution for cloistered study hours of the sunny deck of an ocean-going floating palace, from which to study geography and quaint foreign peoples first hand.

EN PASSANT, THE AUGUSTUS GOODWINS HAVE PLANNED a trip around the world that would occupy most of their winter, but chances are that multiple business cares may put the plans all askew as they keep Mr. Goodwin chained to his desk, figuratively speaking. The master of Brackenside and owner of fleet-footed nags might even find that sightseeing and travel palled on him during so long an absence from his pets, housed so magnificently in perfectly appointed Brackenside stables, the ne plus ultra for shelter of equine aristocrats.

JUST ABOUT ARRIVING ARE THE "HARRY" GREW CROSBYS, who add to a zig-zagging world journey a stop in Boston, Mr. Crosby's own social bailiwick. Sandwiched between stays in Persia and Iceland, Boston's Beacon st. must appear the most sophisticated of Belgravian thoroughfares to these two, who can, if they will, play the social game in several world capitals, but prefer strange sights and little known spots to fashionable pyrotechnics. Within hailing distance of the Big City, Mrs. Crosby will, of course, flit over there to visit with her Jacob kith and kin.

Morning Musicale at Hotel Statler, Wednesday, Has Long Sponsor List

THE FIRST MORNING MUSICAL AT THE HOTEL STATLER, Wednesday, arrives with the recognized fanfare of trumpets and sponsored by literally hundreds of the town's musically inclined fashionables. Sponsor lists reach such staggering proportions these days that to print them in toto would give a society column all the spontaneity one might encounter in a reading of the city directory, except that names are included in the former by request, and by necessity in the latter. However, a choice list of patronesses insures a filled ballroom to hear Mr. Gabrilowitch. If all the ladies whose names adorn the list buy tickets and attend, there'll not be a single gilt chair without its occupant.

MRS. RICHMOND MAYOSMITH, LADY GRENFELL, MRS. HOLLIS SHAW, Mrs. Frederick Page Royce, Mrs. Richard Sears, Miss Lavinia H. Newell, Mrs. Roger D. Swaim, Mrs. William Thayer, Mrs. Thomas B. Gannet, Mrs. Robert Gray Dodge, Mrs. Francis W. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. John Balch, Mrs. Zabdial B. Adams, Mrs. Howard Coonlay, Miss Hannah M. Edwards, Mrs. Joel Goldthwaite, Mrs. H. Hooper Lawrence, Mrs. Henry G. Lapham, Mrs. George Selfridge, Miss Harriet Robeson, Mrs. Charles Sprague, Mrs. Guy Waring, Mrs. Borden Covel, Mrs. Ernest B. Dane, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Mrs. Arthur Blake, are some of the ladies lending their names, their august presence and their moral support to three musical mornings that ultimately will benefit the Boston School for Occupational Therapy.

HOOVER TRIP TO FIND MARKETS FOR U. S. GOODS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service Correspondent.

Washington, Nov. 12—The real purpose of Herbert Hoover's proposed tour of South and Central American countries is to insure American prosperity for another four years by opening fresh markets for American goods in the nations south of the Rio Grande, it was learned today.

The President-elect believes a personal visit would tend to promote a new era of friendship between the United States and the nations to the south, thus laying a proper basis for the development of new trade channels on the American continent.

BUILD UP FOREIGN TRADE

The development of foreign commerce was one of Hoover's chief tasks as Secretary of Commerce during the last eight years. During his tenure in the Cabinet, it was pointed out, American exports grew $1,000,000,000 to a new grand total of $4,865,000,000 in 1927, the largest in the history of our country.

Hoover always thought American merchants were losing a golden opportunity in South America. Early in his campaign Hoover announced "the outlook for the world today is for the greatest era of commercial expansion in history." He pointed out, however, that "these other great nations (that engaged in the war) are now emerging from the destruction of war—the rest of the world will become better customers.

"They will have larger demands, but they also will become stronger competitors." Consequently, Hoover plans to win, meet European competition in South America and endeavor, once and for all time, to establish American trade firmly in the Southern Hemisphere.

U. S. DEPENDS ON TROPICS

As for Central America, Hoover always has declared the United States depended on its imports of raw materials from the tropics. On one recent occasion he declared: "Without continued interchange of tropical products with those of the temperate zone, our country must stagnate and degenerate. We could not run an automobile, we could not operate a dynamo or use a telephone were we without imported raw material from the tropics."

Hoover has believed foreign trade to be the life of America. Our exports alone he once translated into "employment for 2,400,000 families." Millions more, he said, were employed in manufacturing products from imported raw materials. Finally, he added, the farmer's home market depends upon the steady employment of that great army of workers engaged in foreign trade.

MAY VISIT FLORIDA

Hoover has pledged his administration to the task of finding new markets for American surpluses.

Mr. Hoover is highly gratified by the voice of welcome in response to the suggestion of the Latin-American tour. He is besieged with invitations, private and public, from a dozen countries. This cordial response from both Latin-America and the United States surpasses anything the President-elect anticipated.

"Hot Dog King" Seeks New "Jacket" for Lunch Product

Scarsdale, N. Y., Nov. 12—Castas Nitaikades is going to Europe in an effort to repay the U. S. A. for the advantages it has given him since his arrival from Greece in 1914.

Castas, better known as "Hot Dog Joe," has made money, but he is convinced that a crying need is a better covering than a roll for his "dogs."

He has been unable to make waffles and various other things fit, so he is to explore the kitchens of five countries for a solution of the problem.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you will know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is the extravagant price of self-neglect — false teeth Here's the reason and the way to safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised as they are, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice specifically designed to firm gums and keep them sound and healthy, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth white and protects them from acids, which cause decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

OIL CASE JUROR 'APPROACHED,' DISMISSED

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Robert V. Caldwell, a tentative juror in the perjury trial of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, told Justice Jennings Bailey in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today that he was approached yesterday by a man who asked him whethe he would "hold out" in the case. Caldwell said the man had given the name of "McGinnis."

Justice Bailey asked the 24 other talesmen whether they had been approached, but none answered.

The incident developed early in the selection by Justice Bailey of a jury to try Stewart on a perjury indistment of three counts based on testimony by him before the Senate public lands committee during the Continental Trading Company phase of the Teapot Dome investigation. Stewart is alleged to have testified that he knew nothing of the Continental company and its transactions, although he had received $759,000 in bonds from that company.

The defence challenged Caldwell as a juror and he was removed from the box. After Caldwell was excused he said:

"He asked me if I was a Catholic and if I knew Mr. Hogan. He asked me if I was on the jury and if I would stick together with the rest."

Although he told the court the visitor asked if he would "hold out," outside the court, Caldwell said, the expression used was whether he would "stick together with the rest."

MISS EARHART IN HUB; WON'T SEE 'FIANCE'

Back among her Dennison House wards upon the pedestal where they placed her long before she flew the Atlantic, Amelia Earhart held court today to hundreds of small admirers and greeted the local Boy Scouts.

Vigorously denying that she plans soon to marry her old sweetheart, Samuel Chapman of Marblehead, Miss Earhart, now aviation editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, smilingly declared that when she does get married the "flight" will begin just as secretly as her famous trip to England in the Friendship.

"The way I hop around the country no man would want me for a wife," Amelia laughed. "I have headquarters in New York, where my editorial duties on Cosmopolitan Magazine take up a lot of my time, but my job also requires flying here and there to different cities, so I have little time even for correspondence.

WILL WED INSECRET

"Of course, I like romance, but aviation is more important to the public than news of my romance. I shall stick to m yoriginal plan of taking off on that trip without announcement beforehand."

Chapman will not even call upon her while she is here, Amelia said, explaining that he has a new position that took him out of town during her two-day visit.

She will tell all about her flight in the Friendship at Symphony Hall Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Dennison House.

A two-day schedule with every hour taken up includes a talk over WEEI from the Houghton & Dutton studio tomorrow afternoon at 4:12.

PROUD OF HONORS.

Miss Earhart proudly displayed teh aviation insignia given her at the California airmeet this fall when the 381st Air Corps at San Francisco made her an honorary major in the United States army.

CHARGE M'CABE SAW SHOOTING OF ROTHSTEIN

tel room, New York, when Rothstein was shot down.

INVESTIGATION SCORED.

Although it was a week ago last night that the king of the gamblers fell mortally wounded in the hotel room after losing thousands in a stud poker and high spade game, police today were apparently no nearer an arrest than when the investigation began.

One New York newspaper today referred to the scurryings of detectives and officials as "The Burlesque Investigation."

In addition to "Tough Willie" McCabe, police want to question George "Humpy" McManus, also a notorious gambler and a brother of a New York police sergeant.

A topcoat carrying the name "McManus" sewed in the lining was found in the hotel room after its occupants had vanished.

Meanwhile, the battle over Rothstein's will, which he signed merely with an "X," is well underway.

GIRL FIGHTS FOR LEGACY

In Atlantic City, Miss Inez Norton, showgirl and attractive 25-year-old blonde divorcee, has served notice that she will fight to the limit the attempt of Rothstein's family to deprive her of a large legacy left by the gambler, her declared sweetheart.

In a luxurious suite at the Hotel Ambassador, Atlantic City, the Boston Evening American located Rothstein's sweetheart, the twice-divorced Inez, who once graced the Follies.

She declared she would fight as long as her resources held out for the fortune Rothstein left her, one-sixth of his estate.

Rotstein's widow, Carolyn, whom he apparently loved in his own way, despite his clandestine affair with Miss Norton, charges her husband was unduly influenced in executing the will. Her rival, she implies, exerted that influence.

As for Miss Norton, it was learned, despite her denials, that she was the blonde woman who visited Rothstein at Polyclinic hospital the day after he was shot and before he affixed his mark to the document that made her a beneficiary—although she had been unnamed in a former will that Rothstein never signed.

McCabe Sought

IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

Boston entered the murder investigation today, when a clue to "Tough Willie" McCabe was sought here. He was said to have been seen on boat from Savannah, Ga.

While the battle raged between Rothstein's two loves, his mother threatened to demand that Dist. Atty Banton appoint a temporary administrator to supplant the three executors to whom Rothstein assigned unusually broad powers.

Banton was eager to do just that, it was reported, for a sensational story had come to his ears, after going the rounds of Broadway, that it was Rothstein who returned most of the $25,000,000 securities stolen in 1919 and 1920 when Nicky Arnstein and his band of bond buccaneers were looting Wall Street.

Banton had heard, too, on the authority of a powerful surety company's spokesman, that Rothstein was believed to be the power behind the throne of the bond theft ring and got $2,500,000 for the return of the plunder.

FEAR FOR GIRL WITNESS IN CERO CASE

murdered her brother-in-law, Joseph Fantasia, has been sought unsuccessfully for three days by detectives.

She was to have been chief witness tomorrow before the Suffolk Grand Jury in a new investigation of the murder—a probe frankly directed against Gallo as a result of her statements.

The search for her has been on without let-up since last Friday morning, when Assistant Dist. Atty. William H. McDonnell sent to her home for her to report at his office to make a further statement regarding Gallo. She made her home with her sister, Mrs. Fantasia, widow of the slain man, in the North End.

Mrs. Fantasia, according to detectives of the district attorney's office, has been puzzled over the girl's sudden disappearance. She had not taken any clothing with her or given any intimation that she planned to go away, it was declared.

Acting on secret clues, detectives have been sent to New York, it was disclosed, in the hope of finding the girl. Every effort to locate her in time for her appearance before the grand jury tomorrow is being made, the district attorney's office stated.

While Asst. Dist. Atty. McDonnell was loath to believe that she had been kidnaped, stating he believed she went away on her own accord because of her highly nervous nature, detectives were not so optimistic.

The assistant prosecutor said he believed she would return in time for the grand jury investigation. It was pointed out, however, that the girl was not notified that the grand jury was to convene Tuesday.

The seriousness of her charge against Gallo may have resulted, detectives feared, in some one seeking to spirit her away before she could tell her story to the jury.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. McDonnell stated that should she not be found in time, the grand jury will receive her statement as given to him.

Gallo is in Massachusetts General Hospital, convalescing from stab wounds inflicted by Cero several weeks ago when both men met in the yard of the Charles st. jail. Gallo had been sent to the jail on a contempt of court charge, after he was alleged to have attempted to secure a perjured statement from a government witness detrimental to Cero.

ANNE ORR GOING BACK TO STAGE; HITS IDLE WIVES

To combat the "idleness" of marriage and the "distractions" of society, Mrs. Archibald McNeill, Jr., the former Anne Orr, will return to musical comedy next year after a decade of retirement since her marriage.

She was a favorite with Boston theatergoers, who last saw her in the scintillating musical comedy, "The Beauty Shop."

"I feel that I am not serving my purpose in the world if I do not work," Mrs. McNeil declared in announcing her return to the stage.

"I have too much energy and I must use it somehow. Even if I were not paid for my stage work, I would continue it and do it for nothing.

"The greatest trouble with modern marriage is idleness. Both husband and wife should keep busy."

Her contract with the Shuberts was signed by Mrs. McNeil at her home in Black Rock, Ct.

murdered her brother-in-law, Joseph Fantasia, has been sought unsuccessfully for three days by detectives.

She was to have been chief witness tomorrow before the Suffolk Grand Jury in a new investigation of the murder—a probe frankly directed against Gallo as a result of her statements.

The search for her has been on without let-up since last Friday morning, when Assistant Dist. Atty. William H. McDonnell sent to her home for her to report at his office to make a further statement regarding Gallo. She made her home with her sister, Mrs. Fantasia, widow of the slain man, in the North End.

Mrs. Fantasia, according to detectives of the district attorney's office, has been puzzled over the girl's sudden disappearance. She had not taken any clothing with her or given any intimation that she planned to go away, it was declared.

Acting on secret clues, detectives have been sent to New York, it was disclosed, in the hope of finding the girl. Every effort to locate her in time for her appearance before the grand jury tomorrow is being made, the district attorney's office stated.

While Asst. Dist. Atty. McDonnell was loath to believe that she had been kidnaped, stating he believed she went away on her own accord because of her highly nervous nature, detectives were not so optimistic.

The assistant prosecutor said he believed she would return in time for the grand jury investigation. It was pointed out, however, that the girl was not notified that the grand jury was to convene Tuesday.

The seriousness of her charge against Gallo may have resulted, detectives feared, in some one seeking to spirit her away before she could tell her story to the jury.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. McDonnell stated that should she not be found in time, the grand jury will receive her statement as given to him.

Gallo is in Massachusetts General Hospital, convalescing from stab wounds inflicted by Cero several weeks ago when both men met in the yard of the Charles st. jail. Gallo had been sent to the jail on a contempt of court charge, after he was alleged to have attempted to secure a perjured statement from a government witness detrimental to Cero.

ANNE ORR GOING BACK TO STAGE; HITS IDLE WIVES

To combat the "idleness" of marriage and the "distractions" of society, Mrs. Archibald McNeill, Jr., the former Anne Orr, will return to musical comedy next year after a decade of retirement since her marriage.

She was a favorite with Boston theatergoers, who last saw her in the scintillating musical comedy, "The Beauty Shop."

"I feel that I am not serving my purpose in the world if I do not work," Mrs. McNeil declared in announcing her return to the stage.

"I have too much energy and I must use it somehow. Even if I were not paid for my stage work, I would continue it and do it for nothing.

"The greatest trouble with modern marriage is idleness. Both husband and wife should keep busy."

Her contract with the Shuberts was signed by Mrs. McNeil at her home in Black Rock, Ct.

RELIEF FROM HABIT-FORMING LAXATIVES

Sufferers from constipation will welcome a remedy that is made to do more than just relieve immediate symptoms! Thalax—it is called.

Thalax tends to do away with medicine taking! For besides bringing prompt relief, it so strengthens and tones the bowels themselves, that their natural action is gradually restored, and after a reasonable time no more medicine should be necessary, except possibly at rare intervals. Thalax puts life into bowel muscles that have been relaxed or weakened by too much drugging.

Take one or two Thalax tablets tonight at bedtime. In the morning you will experience a natural movement, without griping or distress. Use Thalax at intervals until your bowel movements become normal and natural again, then stop using it. The natural bowel action will continue. No habit will be formed. You will experience no harmful after-effects whatsoever. Instead, the relief will be very noticeable and welcome.

Leading druggists everywhere sell Thalax, 35c per bottle of 30 tablets. If your druggist hasn't it, send direct to the makers, K. A. Hughes Company, Boston, Mass.

tel room, New York, when Rothstein was shot down.

INVESTIGATION SCORED.

Although it was a week ago last night that the king of the gamblers fell mortally wounded in the hotel room after losing thousands in a stud poker and high spade game, police today were apparently no nearer an arrest than when the investigation began.

One New York newspaper today referred to the scurryings of detectives and officials as "The Burleque Investigation."

In addition to "Tough Willie" McCabe, police want to question George "Humpy" McManus, also a notorious gambler and a brother of a New York police sergeant.

A topcoat carrying the name "McManus" sewed in the lining was found in the hotel room after its occupants had vanished.

Meanwhile, the battle over Rothstein's will, which he signed merely with an "X," is well underway.

GIRL FIGHTS FOR LEGACY

In Atlantic City, Miss Inez Norton, showgirl and attractive 25-year-old blonde divorcee, has served notice that she will fight to the limit the attempt of Rothstein's family to deprive her of a large legacy left by the gambler, her declared sweetheart.

In a luxurious suite at the Hotel Ambassador, Atlantic City, the Boston Evening American located Rothstein's sweetheart, the twice-divorced Inez, who once graced the Follies.

She declared she would fight as long as her resources held out for the fortune Rothstein left her, one-sixth of his estate.

Rotstein's widow, Carolyn, whom he apparently loved in his own way, despite his clandestine affair with Miss Norton, charges her husband was unduly influenced in executing the will. Her rival, she implies, exerted that influence.

As for Miss Norton, it was learned, despite her denials, that she was the blonde woman who visited Rothstein at Polyclinic hospital the day after he was shot and before he affixed his mark to the document that made her a beneficiary—although she had been unnamed in a former will that Rothstein never signed.

McCabe Sought

IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

Boston entered the murder investigation today, when a clue to "Tough Willie" McCabe was sought here. He was said to have been seen on boat from Savannah, Ga.

While the battle raged between Rothstein's two loves, his mother threatened to demand that Dist. Atty Banton appoint a temporary administrator to supplant the three executors to whom Rothstein assigned unusually broad powers.

Banton was eager to do just that, it was reported, for a sensational story had come to his ears, after going the rounds of Broadway, that it was Rothstein who returned most of the $25,000,000 securities stolen in 1919 and 1920 when Nicky Arnstein and his band of bond buccaneers were looting Wall Street.

Banton had heard, too, on the authority of a powerful surety company's spokesman, that Rothstein was believed to be the power behind the throne of the bond theft ring and got $2,500,000 for the return of the plunder.

BRITAIN LIKES DEFENSE VIEWS OF COOLIDGE

London, Nov. 12 (AP)—British public opinion of the Armistice Day speech of President Coolidge was today an expression of general satisfaction. The news agencies carried almost identical statements and these were well summed up by Reuters, Ltd., in these words:

"We have learned on inquiry in well-informed British quarters that Mr. Coolidge's address is regarded as satisfactory in showing recognition of the essential differences in the deep problems which face the United States and Europe. He is very clear in his recognition of this and of the right of everybody to everyone's self-defense.

PLEASES LEAGUE FRIENDS.

"The President's remarks, too, were considered very satisfactory as showing the desire of the United States to co-operate in this world problem, while recognizing at the same time that the problem presents itself in different forms to different countries.

"The same consideration applies to his reference to the increasing financial stability of Europe, and undoubtedly there will be found pleasant reading in his reference to the hope that further progress will be made at the next meeting of the league's preparatory commission on disarmament.

"This latter point will be particularly gratifying to all friends of the League and to those who for years have worked on that body to further the cause of disarmament."

The London Telegraph commented:

"President Coolidge has once again shown a complete misapprehension of the British position. Forty of the 68 cruisers mentioned by Mr. Coolidge are obsolescent, if not obsolete.

"America's program for capital ships will give her a definite superiority in large craft which she already possesses in destroyers, submarines, aircraft and naval personnel."

The Morning Post said that it understood and sympathized with President Coolidge's desire for a big navy to defend the coasts and foreign trade of the United States and its possessions.

Move to Jam Cruiser Bill Through Congress

Washington, Nov. 12 (INS)—Taking their cue from President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech before the American Legion, congressional "big navy" advocates mustered forces today to jam a cruiser building bill through Congress.

The President served notice that America was tired of bickering with Europe over naval disarmament, and intended to build more cruisers to put the American navy on a parity with the British. He pointed out that the British cruiser program called for 68 ships against 49 for the United States.

LISTENERS TEST NEW WAVES

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

WELL, the gentle listener had an opportunity yesterday, providing he was not watching Armistice Day parades, to try out the Federal Radio Commission's Christmas present to the nation, the new radio station wave lengths. Undoubtedly plenty of comment was made by assiduous and sometimes acidulous fans in the process of doing their Jimmie Valentine stunt in search of favorite broadcasts. Much of this comment was undoubtedly scarcely appropriate either to the Sabbath or to hallowed recent memories of the day.

A BARREN REGION

FIRST OF ALL, we find great wide open, barren spaces on our dials. WNAC, WBET, WSSH, WLOE, WLEX and WMES are way down in the depths. On many receivers they hover just on the plimsol line. Slightly above comes WBZ, a few points below its previous location. Then a vast upward leap brings you ultimately to WEEI. In between, for the majority of listeners, there is nothing. Generally speaking, I was able to get WEEI in considerable volume. WBZ'S volume was fair but its wave was considerably sharper than heretofore. (WNAC was extremely weak on some sets and in some localities, and on others it spread over as much as 25 points on the dial. This latter condition was particularly noticeable with the very efficient National screen grid tuner. On this receiver, WNAC blanketed everything within 15 points each side of its normal position. This means that for thousands of sets, unless something is done about it, WNAC will completely obliterate WBET, WLOE, WSSH, WMES, WLEX and a number of distant high-powered stations in the lower part of the spectrum.

THEORETICAL PARADISE

MAYBE conditions will change. Maybe there will be some new assignments, and it is to be hoped that some of them will come to New England, if they mean wider separation of stations. If the new scheme should work out anything like the theoretical paradise which the Federal Radio Commission has been promising for the past year, here's about the order in which principal distant and local stations should come in on your receiver, starting with the longer wave lengths, which are usually found at the high end of the dial: WEAN, WTAG, WEEI, WTIC, WEAF, WLW, WOR, WGN, WJR, WJZ, WESO, WGY, WCCO, WHAS, KOA, WABC, WOC, WCAC, KDKA, WBZ, WOC, KYW and KFKX, WTAM and WEAR, WHAM, WEPS, WNAC, WCAC, WBET and WMAF, WLEX and WSSH, WLOE and WMES.

'U. S. Men Cowards' Under Women Tyrants

Vienna, Nov. 12 (INS)—Sigurd Hoeberth von Schwarzthal, president of the League of Men, an organization to "combat the growing domination by women," today took American men to task for their failure to organize a branch of the league.

Herr Von Schwarzthal said he believed American married men "are too cowardly" and the bachelors are "too happy in their single state" to organize against the tyranny of women.

But he added that the movement has the moral support of such prominent Americans as Charlie Chaplin, the film star, and A. B. See of New York, a bitter critic of modern women.

Herr Von Schwarzthal pointed out that the political domination of women was proved in the recent American election, when Mr. Hoover was elected President. The Viennese crusader said that American women dominated the election and brought about the election of Herbert Hoover. He declared that American women are now the rulers of both American public and private life.

Commenting further upon the organization and its aims, Herr Von Schwarzthal said:

"England responded more readily to the battle cry of our crusaders. One of our honorary members is Lord Philimore, president of the International Law Association. He fully recognized the necessity for revision of marriage and alimony laws, which show a hostile tendency against men all over Europe and America.

"Our laws, as they exist now, only support the tyranny of modern women, who demand all rights and refuse all duties; who are marrying men only to lead a careless, workless, childless life; or to obtain a divorce and lifelong alimony. Some girls regard even motherhood as an opportunity to take hold of some wealthy alimony payer.

"Our league is fighting for the emancipation of the oppressed male sex. We demand a revision of the present alimony laws. We want only equality and we protest against favoritism of the legislative and judicial authorities in favor of women. Is it not a shame that the police invariably side with the women whenever a domestic quarrel develops?

"This tyranny of women is destroying men's faculties. The men are becoming weaklings without the power to make decisions unless a woman tells them what to do. Only the emancipation of man can prevent our race from declining and going into absolute ruin."

Herr Schwarzthal is himself divorced. So is another outstanding member of the league—Col. Gustav Wolff, leader of the Austrian Monarchists.

The league is planning to call an international congress in this city in which, the sponsors hope, the United States will have at least an "unofficial observer."

Expect 5000 Here at W. C. T. U. Sessions

"GOING to Boston for the 54th annual convention of the W. C. T. U., which is to be held in Tremont Temple, November 14-22?" "Indeed we are!" echoes a chorus of affirmation from over 5000 women in every state and territory of the United States; and how enthusiastically they are looking forward to seeing our historic Boston Towne.

Mrs. Ropes

The State president, Mrs. Alice G. Ropes, showed me a program, brittle with age, of the last convention held here in 1891, one of the "ads" read: "Horse-car tickets can be purchased for five cents." She tells me that the convention will have a demonstration of the views of Young America, through the presentation of a "Patriotic Roll" signed by half a million young men and women who pledge allegiance to the Constitution with special reference to the 18th amendment. These signatures make a strip more than two miles long, and were exhibited by Miss Jewell at the W. C. T. U. World Convention in Switzerland last summer, to show that American boys and girls are not being debauched by prohibition, a notion prevalent over there. Mrs. Ropes is so well known it seems superfluous for me to mention that she is one of the founders and first president of the Wollaston Women's Club, past president of the Quincy Women's Club, past regent of the Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter of the D. A. R. and State president of the New Church Women's Alliance.

Barton, LL.D., Russell J. Blair and Col. Patrick H. Callahan.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Saturday will be Young People's night. Sunday an address by Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army. HERRICK HAILS LINDY IN PEACE

Cleveland, Nov. 12 (AP)—With refreshened memory of the horrors of the World War which ended a decade ago, Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, today appealed for a permanent peace based upon the outlawry of war and imparted to this nation the duty of leadership in declaring for such a principle.

Before an Armistice Day gathering in Public Auditorium Herrick pointed with hope to the Briand-Kellogg pact and called upon the United States to approve it, notwithstanding any criticism by those who believe treaties can be enforced only when backed up by instruments of war.

With tribute to the valor displayed by American doughboys, the ambassador pictured the position into which this nation came as one of natural leadership.

"After all their futile wanderings, the eyes of the people were turned toward heaven for some sign," said the man who welcomed to France a young American aviator of fame.

"It seemed to me the sign did appear when that boy of ours, Lindbergh, came unheralded and settled to rest on Le Bourget Field. That proved to be one of the supreme moments in the history of America and France. Its benign influence has helped to quiet the troubled affairs of nations."

Variation of Beans

MOVING to the city from the country, one of the first things I noticed was how few people were tied home on Saturdays to "watch the beans." I wasn't long in discovering what a mighty handy can a can of baked beans is to have around the house. Especially if it's the kind that has that "baked-out-of-doors" flavor. Back in the Maine woods they have an old-time recipe for baked beans.

First a layer of beans, then a layer of sugar-cured pork, then another layer of beans and another layer of pork, a cup of brown sugar and a cup of molasses. The lid is sealed on air-tight with clay and the pot is buried deep in the hot earth oven, the bean hole, where it slowly cooks all night in a fragrant bed of burning pine wood.

This gives the finest baked bean flavor known, and it is this flavor that has been reproduced in these beans I am telling you of.

They come in two sizes, medium and large, and I suggest your opening them about an hour before meal time. Pour them into your best glass casserole or au gratin dish and put them in the oven for an hour to acquire that crispy, crinkly top layer that's so definitely associated with home-baked beans.

Or, if you prefer, empty them into a heavy iron or aluminum frying pan, set them on the back of the range and let them simmer slowly for at least three-quarters of an hour.

Serve with steaming hot plum brown bread, which also comes in sealed containers ready to heat and eat, with grandma's piccalilli or chili sauce, tart apple pie and coffee and what more could man—or a woman—ask for a Sunday night supper? Unless, indeed, it be the addition of a succulent frankfurter or two.

Any left-over backed beans can be used in a variety of ways. Covered with cold water and simmered for an hour or two with a stalk of celery, a tablespoon of tomato ketchup, half of an onion finely minced, seasoned to taste and strained through a puree sieve, they make a delicious and nourishing soup. A slice of fancy cut lemon or slice of hard-cooked egg floated in each soup dish adds the necessary touch of color.

Baked Bean Loaf I've described many times, also baked bean croquettes, bean salad and sandwich filling. For the latter, mash the beans and mix them with thick tomato chili sauce and a spread between thin slices of well buttered whole wheat bread. All sandwiches should be thoroughly buttered in order to keep the fillings from soaking in.

Chef Will Lecture

JAMES DONALDSON, chef of the United States Hotel, will conduct the class in the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery next Wednesday, November 14, at 2 p. m. Set this down now as an engagement you won't want to break, for Mr. Donaldson has arranged an exceedingly interesting program for you.

The United States Hotel, at the corner of Kingston and Beach sts., has for many years been known from coast to coast for cleanliness, good food, good service and good fellowship. Every noon you will find representative Boston business men taking advantage of the convenient lunchroom, with its homelike atmosphere, while the ladies appreciate the popular prices, pure food, cleanliness and courteous service.

The new Amber Room, which opened the latter part of October, is rapidly becoming famous for its excellent music, attractive surroundings and special luncheons and dinners. The Amber Room also offers a la carte service. Dancing from 6 to 12, plenty of parking space, good service and exceptionally good food, for which Chef Donaldson is responsible.

Mr. Donaldson is a native of New Zealand, educated in Scotland, and has been connected with high-class hotels in this country as well as in Australia. He will prepare and serve for you Australian mock goose, beefsteak with olive sauce, sea pie and poached fillet of sole.

At the next meeting of your local women's club, won't you extend an invitation to them to visit the Martha Lee Kitchen on Chef's Day in a group?

Special reservations will be made if telephoned for a day or two in advance. Home economics departments of schools and colleges are also cordially invited. Ask your daughter to tell her home economics teacher at school about these worthwhile classes. Perhaps she would like to chaperon a party in the near future.

Enroll in Class Now

YOU have probably always wanted to attend a cooking school but have perhaps felt that they were a bit expensive. Now is your opportunity to enroll for an eight-weeks' course in practical cookery with no charge of any kind. Martha Lee gives these lessons in the Boston Evening American Cooking School, on the fifth floor at 5 Winthrop sq. at 2 p. m., twice weekly, on Mondays and Fridays.

Owing to the seating capacity, it is necessary to limit each class to 225 members, but there are still a few vacancies for Class IV, so we would suggest your writing Martha Lee today if you would like to join the scores of New England women who tell us they are getting so much out of the lessons. Write or telephone to Martha Lee that you wish to be enrolled.

A balanced diet call for two vegetables daily besides potatoes; one of these should be fresh and uncooked.

Class Will Graduate

THERE will be special "doings" in the Martha Lee Kitchen at 5 Winthrop Square next Thursday, November 15, at 2 p. m., when Class III of the Martha Lee School of Practical Cookery will graduate.

Over 200 New England housewives will receive their diplomas on this day, having completed the eight weeks' course. During this course all the fundamental principles of home cookery have been covered for the brides, while the more experienced home-makers have learned new twists to old favorites.

Seats will be reserved for the graduates, but there will be ample space for visitors also and all are welcome. There will be a moving picture, refreshments, the awards of prizes and, we hope, a "pleasant time for all."

Everyone should have fruit twice a day. Preferably, one fresh.

NOBLE'S MILK
"that's good milk"
Now, as always, the best milk obtainable

OUR main plant at Somerville is being entirely rebuilt and in about six weeks' time will represent the most modern pasteurizing and milk bottling plant that present day practice can devise.

This rebuilding of our main plant is due to an unfortunate fire which took place on the 31st of October. In 24 hours time we were operating complete uninterrupted service at our Millwood Farm in Framingham. This dairy has been unconditionally approved by the State Department of Health and Local Boards of Health. Every possible scientific and sanitary method is employed so that all our patrons have continued to receive Noble's Milk of the same high quality as ever and without interruption of service.

Laboratory analysis and bacteriological work has been taken over by the Boston Bio-Chemical Laboratory. Medical inspection of employees is being made as usual by our regular physicians.

The outstanding and unequalled reputation of Noble's Milk is a watchword in this vast community. The tremendous goodwill back of this name is the most precious asset of this company. Hyde Park and East Boston in 12 to 12 Tie

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS
INTEREST — NEWS THE DAY IT HAPPENS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1928

East Boston and Hyde Park in Tie Game

Jamaica Plain defeated Brighton, 19 to 6, at Braves Field today in a game replete with great forward passing and broken field running. Darcy and Rantilla played smart football against the Brighton gridders who threatened to score via the aerial route on several occasions.

East Boston High and Hyde Park High battled through 40 minutes of fast and spectacular football to a 12-12 tie at Braves Field this morning.

Frequent fumbles marred the chances of both teams when they were within scoring distance.

The forward pass combination of Young to Killilea gave the East Boston supporters many anxious moments before the final whistle blew.

East Boston high got the jump on its Hyde Park rivals in the first period when Santaiwin blocked Trenholm's punt on Hyde Park's 30-yard line. With Megner and Hazelton alternating in plugging the line, they brought the ball down to the six-yard line, where Carrozza carried it over.

Hyde Park soon evened the count when they got their overhead game working. A forward, Young to Killilea, was good for 20 yard. On another attempt they failed, but Younb and Killilea campleted one other and Killilea scored. The try for the extra point failed.

At the start of the second half Megner kicked off to Trenholm, the Hyde Park quarter, who fumbled, and Cahill recovered for East Boston on Hyde Park's 25-yard line.

After two unsuccessful tries at the line, Megner kicked to Young. Young lost five yards at tackle. Trenholm punted to Megner on his 45-yard line.

Carrozza gained eight at left tackle. On the following play Carrozza started around left end, but cut back for a beautiful 43-yards run and a touchdown. On his way to the score Carrozza was given some fine interference, and when it seemed as though he was caught the Hyde Park secondary were taken out to the queen's taste.

Army and Navy May Play Next Year

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—Ohio State and Navy will meet at Columbus on next year's Navy football schedule, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the naval academy, announced today.

The November 30 date on next year's schedule will be held open for a possible game with West Point, and while Comdr. Ingram expressed hope that a service game might be played, he said it rested with Army to accept or reject the date.

University of Michigan will not be on the schedule, but there is a possibility it may appear again on the Navy's 1930 program.

The Ohio State game will be played on November 16 at Columbus, and Notre Dame will play navy on October 12, though the place for this game remains to be fixed. Other games to appear on next year's schedule will include Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, October 26; Princeton on November 23, with the game played probably at either Princeton or Philadelphia, and Georgetown at Annapolis on October 19. A schedule of 10 base will be prepared.

Despite rumors on the Western coast that Navy will play there next year, the middies team will not go there in 1927, Comdr. Ingram said, pointing to the interruption of the academic year by "traveling football."

Mass. Sportsmen in National Fox Hunt

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—The annual fox hound trials of the National Fox Hunters' Association got under way today with the running of the chase futurity, an event which has attracted approximately 30 entries. The event, which will be continued through Wednesday, has a purse of $1000 and in addition plate and cups valued an equal sum.

The field trials have brought sportsmen and sportswomen from many states, including Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Giants in Tie With Wolverines in N. Y.

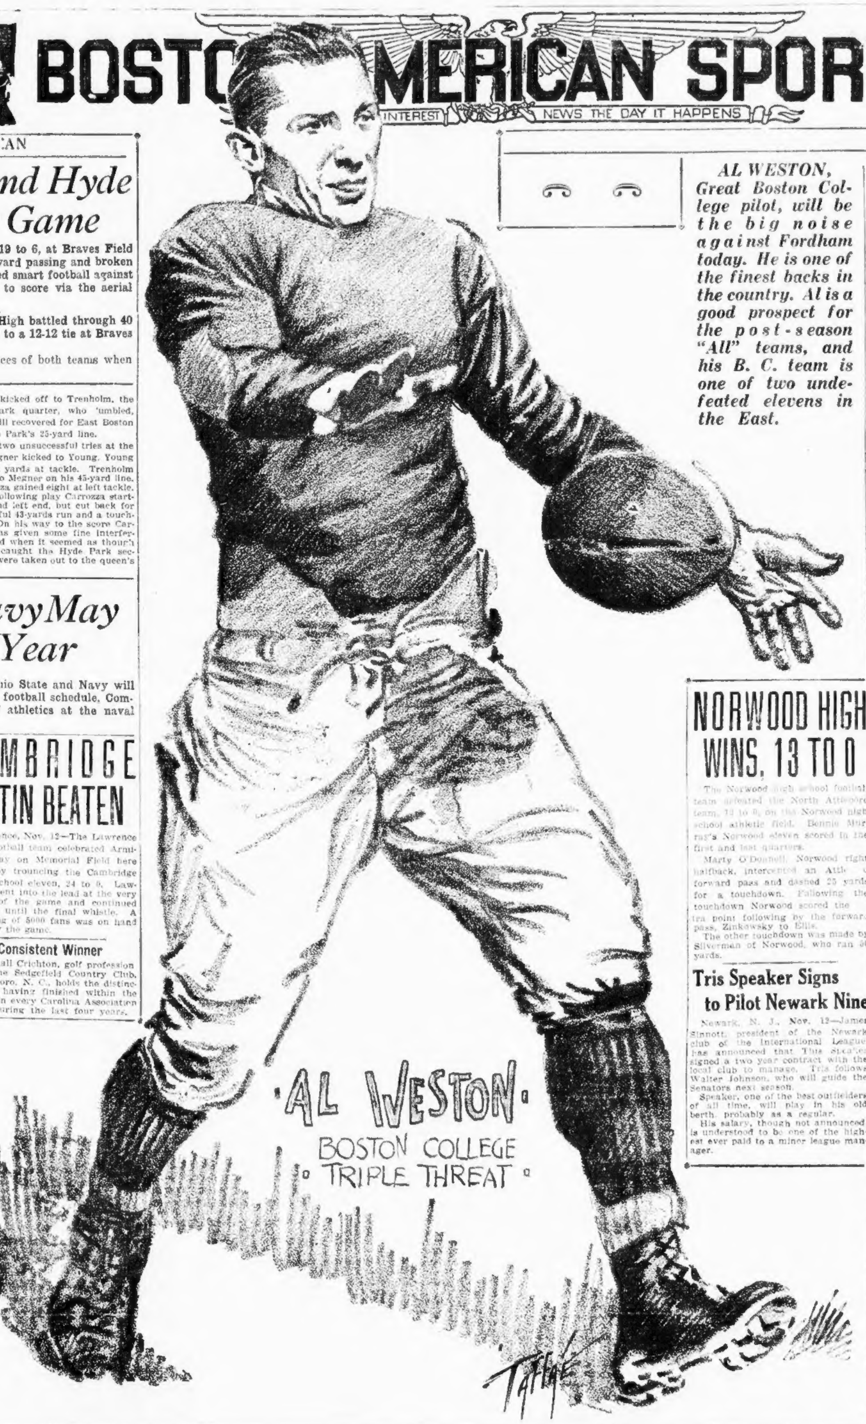
New York, Nov. 12.—The New York Giants were masters of the Detroit Wolverines through three periods of a bitterly fought contest at the Polo grounds, but they crumbled when Benny Friedman tossed two passes which brought 12 points in the final quarter for a final score of 19 to 19.

Georgette and Beckman in Lead

Chicago, Nov. 12 (AP) Three teams of speeding cyclists separated only by a margin of points, led the field early today in Chicago's 20th international six-day bicycle race which began last night on the Coliseum track.

Burns, Former Star Of Dodgers, Dead

Tom Burns, who was a noted outfielder of the Brooklyn club in the days when "Pop" Anson and Dan Brouthers were young stars, died yesterday at his home, No. 265 Seventy-first street, Brooklyn. Burns was sixty-four years old.



AL WESTON, Great Boston College pilot, will be the big noise against Fordham today. He is one of the finest backs in the country. Al is a good prospect for the post-season "All" teams, and his B. C. team is one of two undefeated elevens in the East.

CAMBRIDGE LATIN BEATEN

Lawrence, Nov. 12—The Lawrence high football team celebrated Armistice Day on Memorial Field here today by trouncing the Cambridge Latin school eleven, 24 to 0. Lawrence went into the lead at the very outset of the game and continued to gain until the final whistle. A gathering of 5000 fans was on hand to enjoy the game.

Consistent Winner

Marshall Crichton, golf professional at the Sedgefield Country Club, Greensboro, N. C., holds the distinction of having finished within the money in every Carolina Association event during the last four years.

NORWOOD HIGH WINS, 13 TO 0

The Norwood high school football team defeated the North Attleboro team, 13 to 0, on the Norwood high school athletic field. Bennie Murray's Norwood eleven scored in the first and last quarters.

Marty O'Donnell, Norwood right halfback, intercepted an Attleboro forward pass and dashed 25 yards for a touchdown. Following the touchdown Norwood scored the extra point following by the forward pass, Zinkowsky to Ellis.

The other touchdown was made by Silverman of Norwood, who ran 50 yards.

Tris Speaker Signs to Pilot Newark Nine

Newark, N. J., Nov. 12—James Sinnott, president of the Newark club of the International League has announced that Tris Speaker signed a two year contract with the local club to manage. Tris follows Walter Johnson, who will guide the Senators next season.

Speaker, one of the best outfielders of all time, will play in his old berth probably as a regular.

His salary, though not announced is understood to be one of the highest ever paid to a minor league manager.

Eagles Favored to Defeat Cavmen

The sun was shining brightly and there was just enough frost in the air to make fur coats and heavy ulsters comfortable.

The annual melee between the Jesuit rivals has plenty of color. There's enough rivalry in today's struggle to make a perfect setting for any story.

It's a master vs. pupil affair with the pupil the favorite. Two great teams will perform the grid details while a non-partisan audience, the biggest in the annals of mid-season football at B. C., looks on.

Boston College has plied through five more or less hard tussles this campaign without a loss. Along with Carnegie Tech it stands as the only undefeated and untied team in the East.

Fordham has been knocked over twice. New York University gave Fordham a large pasting while West Virginia did likewise. Yet the Maroon came back after the N. Y. U. game and walloped Holy Cross sending eleven of the Purple regulars into the infirmary for a while.

West Virginia defeated Fordham six days ago. This means that Fordham will show Boston College the same fight they displayed when they invaded Worcester to upset Cleo O'Donnell's clan.

In Cav's nine years at Boston College this was always noticeable. If his team lost a game one Saturday, they seldom were taken into camp on the following week-end. For in the interim it is Cavanaugh's custom to work his team hard and to shift a few boys about here and there for the psychological effect.

Boston College's squad, in perfect condition, and in the right mental state after a peaceful week-end at Sandy Burr, is on its way to the scene of battle. The Eagles are prepared for anything that Fordham will offer and confident of victory.

BATTLE ON LINE

It seems that today's battle will be decided in the lines. Fordham has a frontier that outweighs the Eagles, but it is doubtful if it can outplay McKenney's forwards. But if that Fordham barrier can repulse the crushing drives of Weston, Creedon, Smith and Mirley, Boston College may find its first defeat of the fall.

The B. C. line has to clear out the Maroon wall on the offense and rush Larry Dallaire with his passes when on defense. As far as has been noted this season, Dallaire is Fordham's big threat. Cav hasn't got a good running back on his club.

Charley Pieculewicz, the big fullback from South Boston, can hit a line, but has never shown anything at galloping once in the open spaces. Taking all this into consideration, McKenney feels that if his team can keep Dallaire from getting a line on his receivers and make him hurry the throws, his team will win.

DALLAIRE PASSES WELL

Cav has added a new wrinkle to his team's repertoire, and it is a novel idea in college football. Dallaire, the quarterback, takes the pass from center through his legs while facing the backfield. He steps back a few paces, looks once and throws.

Most of his passes are of the short, snappy variety. They whiz through the air like bullets and it takes a mighty fast back to step into the way of one of these unless he is on a direct line with the route of the ball from Dallaire to the receiver.

Boston College has a well-rounded outfit all the way through. But, as Dallaire is the whole Fordham offense, Weston is the big noise in the Eagle guns. With Weston out of the lineup B. C. would have to fight as never before for victory.

And this is one note that's worrying B. C. men. Fordham is one of the hardest tackling outfits in the East. Cav's teams always were. And they're all to watch Weston. Cav has made it clear that if they stop Weston they'll stop B. C. And those six foot warriors from the Bronx will be hurtling at Weston with everything they have.

There will be a great battle in the lines.

Everything taken into consideration today's battle looms as a history-making affair. Both teams are primed for the battle and both are confident of victory. B. C. is heavy and fast and Fordham has a smart stubborn lot who won't say through until the referee blows the whistle into the November dusk.

Both colleges will present their bands to provide entertainment between the halves while the American Legion will present a program in memory of the dead of the World War. Taps will be sounded while the crowd stands for a moment's silence and the exercises will be concluded with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

N. E. Checker Cup Tourney on Today

The New England checker players are offered a checker feast in the Joseph J. Lannin Memorial Tournament, to be held at the American House today (Armistice Day), from 10:30 a. m. until midnight, by the Boston Checker Club.

This tournament will be an annual event and open to all classes of New England checker players, from the amateur to the master player, with 16 prizes offered: four prizes for each class, besides a silver cup for the master tourney, to be played for under rules to be announced at the tourney.

Mr. Lannin was a former owner of the Boston Red Sox, a devoted follower of checkers, and well known to sport followers.

PROMOTERS LOSE $35,000 ON GEORGETOWN GAME

Albany, Nov. 12—With a loss of approximately $35,000 confronting the Capitol District Baseball Association, sponsor of the Georgetown-Carnegie Tech football game here Saturday, as result of the small estimated attendance of 7000, officials of the association, which holds the Eastern League franchise, indicate that prospects for big-time football battles in Albany in the future are far from rosy.

The Albany officials had figured on a capacity attendance of 16,000 at the capital city's only gridiron event in 25 years.

Eagles in Death Duel

Nanaimo, B. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Two eagles fought a duel to the death here. Locked in combat, they fell into Comax Road park and continued to battle until a truck driver ended the fight with a club.

These Players Just Have to Make Good on Grid

Stillwater, Okla., Nov. 12 (A.P.)—Five of the eleven first-string men of the Oklahoma A. and M. football squad are married.

Their wives attend home games, but Coach J. F. Maulbetsch does not permit them to accompany their heroes when the team goes away from Stillwater.

The benedicts are Grady Burlison, tackle; Sam Myers, center; Ambrose Patterson, guard; Barney Hendrickson, tackle, and Roy Danford, quarterback.

PETER MANNING TROTS TO NEW WORLD RECORD

Hanover, Pa., Nov. 12—Peter Manning, 1:56¾, the fastest trotter the world has seen, has concluded another season of brilliant achievements and is in quarters at the establishment of his owner, the Hanover Shoe Farms, here.

The son of Azoff, who was bred by W. M. Wright of Chicago and Lexington, Ky., boasts the fastest mile turned in ove. a half-mile course this year, 2:02¼.

Man Wins $50.90 on Bet, Drops Dead Collecting

Baltimore, Nov. 12—Winning $50.90 on Pygmalion in the Calvert Handicap, the sixth race at Pimlico, John A. Gottsman, 60 years old, of Washington, fell dead as a mutuel clerk placed his winnings on the counter at a window in the betting ring.

Pygmalion, that ran second, paid $50.90 for place and a ticket showing Gottsman had made such a bet had just been surrendered.

This photo and attached diagrams show one of the many of Penn's hidden ball plays which so bewildered Harvard in the Stadium on Saturday last. In this particular play, Capt. Paul Scull received the ball from center and faked a pass to Murphy, who was standing on his right. Murphy started towards his right end, met Shober and faked a pass to him. Opekun, coming from left wing back position, received the ball from Scull. Scull shot ahead to aid his center and left end to hold back Harvard forwards, Shober warded off O'Connell. Utz dropped back to give Opekun interference.

There was once a day when our daily existence was not half so rosy. We got about on tall, cumbersome contrivances called bicycles. We stuffed ourselves into tight suits and sweltered under high, sharp-edged collars. We cramped our feet with long, narrow shoes. But today things are vastly different. Comfort predominates in everything we do or wear. Take shoes, for instance. Our shoes, bought at Coward's, are designed, built and fitted by men who are practical foot specialists. They see that our arches are properly supported and that our toes have ample room. Again, in Coward shoes, comfort predominates.

War at Fenway
Cav Wants Win
Eagles Powerful

That Yale Game
Harvard Has Chance
Our New Garden

By NICK FLATLEY

FEATHERS WILL FLY AT FENWAY TODAY

LOVERS of hard, rugged football will see plenty at Fenway Park this afternoon. Major Cavanaugh brings his Fordham eam along to engage the Boston College Eagles, and the major's teams always play the game for all that is in it. Joe McKeney, pupil of the major, has sold his charges the very same idea. So the boys will go to it with vim and vigor.

Nick Flatley

The big team from the Heights has real class, but has not been tested much. The regulars have played about a period per game and then stepped aside to let the subs perform. Physically they are perfect, but it may be they haven't been steamed up enough.

That Fordham team has been through what you might call hell several times this season. New York University and West Virginia both licked the Cav cohorts. But that has been forgotten. The famous coach has been heading for this one game all year. He has the old college spirit. A season is a success if the big game is won, let all the others be lost, if necessary.

Cav would give his brown derby to lick the Eagles, and it's a cinch his somewhat battered team will go in there raging to win. The major will have to use psychology to get away with this one, but he knows how to do that little thing. He coached the veterans on the Boston team nd he coached the coach. He has figured just what he's up against. And he will be on the sidelines glowering at his former B. C. friends.

McKenney has a smooth football machine, which should win, if the Cavanaugh glare doesn't sprinkle an inferiority complex around. It will be interesting to watch things work out.

Weston and Creedon are two of the best backs in the East. and young Mister Murphy is All-America end material; while the huge Eagle line is fast and synchronizes wonderfully at times.

Cav, on the bench, will be the big obstacle the natives will have to get around. If this war follows the trend of the year, Fordham will win. Whatever happens it will be a merry football game. For both teams can put on an aerial game that would be worth a million bucks over at Harvard.

MAYBE PRESIDENT LOWELL, FOLLOWING JUDGE FUCHS IDEA, COULD COACH THE CRIMSON AND GIVE IT A PASSING GAME

HARVARD-YALE TO BE FIFTY-FIFTY TILT

IT grows more and more apparent, as the shattered wreckage of various teams clutters the football trail, that the annual skirmish between Harvard and Yale is going to stir up plenty of excitement.

Harvard enthusiasts will storm the Bowl, because the Crimson, after many years, has a real chance. Yale will be present, pulling the old rabbit out of the hat—the crack to the effect that if Harvard is beaten nothing else matters.

That, as a matter of truth, is a lot of horse feathers, but it's as good an alibi as another for working up some last game fever. Harvard has a long way to go to become a good football team, but so, too, has Yale. The Crimson has power and courage, and a lateral pass, but that's about all.

Harvard tried to beat Penn by going to the air with a machine that couldn't get off the ground. Five of the six laterals that Harvard tried were successful. The same play, even if Penn was waiting for it, might well have scored a couple of touchdowns, because Penn couldn't stop it.

Penn had an early break, and not a great deal else, although Paul Scull was the best looking back that has been seen in the Stadium for not less than ten years. There isn't a thing either offensively or defensively, that the young man can't do a little bit better than any of the present specialists.

Harvard, through all the years, hasn't learned that the one way to come from behind is to cut loose early, and throw judgment out the window. A team that's in front can wait for the breaks. The gang that's trailing must step out to make them.

THAT WHISTLE WITH THE BALL ON THE THREE-YARD LINE WAS THE BLOW THAT KILLED ARMY.

There are plenty of second guessers in football and most of them seem to be quarterbacks. Ask the coaches.

NEW GARDEN OFF TO GOOD START

THE new Boston Garden will open this week with a show that packs as much class as anything the boys over in Madison Square ever attempted. The new Garden will be quite a spot for all sorts of sports, if the fans can be attracted to that end of the town. Mister E. Mack can provide the fight cards that will do it, if anything will. And, of course, the hockey rooters will march anywhere to watch the Bruins.

Our New Garden gets away to a good start Saturday. And it is a spot that figures to make friends, once the boys take a peek.

Lannin Memorial Checker Tourney On

The New England checker players get action on the boards today in the Joseph J. Lannin Memorial tournament, held at the American House, from 10:30 a. m. until midnight.

This tournament will be an annual event and open to all classes of New England checker players from the amateur to the master player, with 16 prizes offered for prizes for each class besides a silver cup for the master tourney, to be played for under rules to be announced at the tourney.

One of the main objects of the tournament is to further interest in the game of checkers, by inducing the amateur or younger player to get into the games and show his skill, with inducement for his efforts.

FINNEGAN BATTLES ROUTIS

By JACK CONWAY

TWO new boxing clubs will whirl into action in Boston this week.

The Sharkey A. A., with Tony Palazola matchmaker, will get under way at Mechanics building on Wednesday night, with Jack Britton, former welterweight champion of the world, and Larry Brignolia of Cambridge as the attraction in the feature mill of 10 rounds.

Jackie Donahue, nifty South Boston featherweight, will tackle [illegible] Parker of the South End in the [illegible] of eight rounds.

Jack Conway

It is the plan of the Sharkey A. A. to [illegible] its [illegible] from [illegible] cents to $3. It is the first time in the history of Mechanics Building that a boxing show has been offered at 50 cents.

There will be heavy firing at the North Station on Saturday night when the Boston Garden throws its doors open to the public. A monster boxing carnival will be sponsored by the Crosscup-Pishon post of the American Legion. Dick Finnegan of Dorchester and Andre Routis will head this boxing extravaganza.

Routis is world's featherweight champion as a result of his recent win over Tony Canzoneri. His bout with Finnegan will be at 134 pounds and so Routis' title will not be at stake. This is not expected to take away any interest from the tussle, as the rival battlers are well matched and are certain to furnish action.

BRITTON is in town for his tussle with Brignolia at Mechanics Building on Wednesday night. The veteran has been working out at Jim Toland's gym. He is confident he will add Brignolia to his list of victims and later secure a tussle with Al Mello.

Britton will be on the short end of the betting Wednesday night. Brignolia has won 15 straight bouts. He looks like one of the best ring prospects in the country. It is [illegible] plan to carry the [illegible] to Britton [illegible] he assails [illegible]

TO REPEAT:

The largest allowance offered on your present car may be the best deal for you

FOR the past two years General Motors has been publishing basic facts about trading allowances. During that time many car buyers have come to a realization that the largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal. The facts are repeated here:

Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i. e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

Does a Girl Pay for Being Fickle?

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Serviss Explains Some Rules of Gravity

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"After an astronautic plane has left the earth and is no longer affected by its gravitation, will the plane itself take the place of an attractive body? Suppose a man wished to leave the plane, if it were possible in any direction, could he succeed, or would the plane attract him toward its center? Or with what speed would he have to shoot himself to overcome the gravitation of the plane? At what speed must a body be thrown into space so that it would not return, and why?—H. Herdman."

REMEMBER the law of gravitation, which says that every particle in the universe attracts every other particle, with a force proportional to its mass and inversely proportional to the distance. There is no exception to this. The [illegible] means exactly what it says. It follows that your astronautic [illegible] no matter where it may be, [illegible] exert a gravitational attraction proportional to its mass. But its mass being very small, the force of attraction will be proportionately small. [illegible] that it keeps the [illegible] moving around the sun [illegible] the revolution of enormous [illegible] and in short binds the universe [illegible] the force of gravity is amazingly weak, when measured by the attraction of small unit masses. Read this: Two masses of one gram, [illegible] meter apart, attract one another with a force of about one fifteen millionth of a dyne."

Now a dyne is a unit of force equivalent to a weight of about one milligram. Therefore the unit, or "constant" of gravitation only equals a weight of one fifteen millionth of a milligram!

Now your weight of say 150 pounds is the total effect of the attraction of all the particles composing the huge globe of the earth which weighs six sextillions of tons. Suppose the plane weighed one ton its attraction, as you must see, would be excessively slight. The astronaut could by a simple push separate from it. But to separate from the earth he would need to impart to himself a velocity of nearly seven miles per second.

You ask why this is so? It is because the effect of gravitation is measured by the [illegible]

This added speed of 32 feet per second is called the acceleration of gravity. But it holds good only near the earth's surface, becoming [illegible] attracted [illegible] farther from the earth.

But by the law of gravitation, [illegible] a certain velocity [illegible] from a certain distance [illegible] if it is started back [illegible] resistance, it [illegible] the distance. So, if a velocity of seven miles per second be [illegible] on the earth it would continue to recede [illegible] from the earth.

Yes, Sir . . . This Man Opened the Door of Your Home, Too!

NEC

NEW England has one magnificent ex-peddler who has become a prince in the international realm of industry because he found how to use a formula of modern magic that would open the doors of four thousand homes at once, instead of one.

The historical facts of this man's business career have added more actual wealth and more living romance to the achievements of modern industry in New England than any Far Eastern fable has ever added to the world's fondest dreams of avarice.

Today this man is the president of a company which is one of the world's largest producers of household cleaning equipment. A little over twenty years ago he was one of several hundred employees in a Boston public utilities company, when he developed a simplified method of making a more effective product.

IN SISTER'S CELLAR

His first work-shop was the cellar of his sister's home. His first capital was $400. In the morning he made with his own hands as many of these little brushes as he could. In the afternoon he set out on foot to sell his wares from house to house.

Soon he was able to sell more than he could make himself. He hired help and covered more of the countryside.

Experienced merchants laughed at him. "It can't be done," they told him. They said the day of house-to-house selling was over, that the only profitable way to sell goods was through the accepted channels of wholesale and retail distribution.

But this obstinate New Englander persisted. Through the means of the printed word . . printed salesmanship, called advertising . . he sent his story into more and more homes. Through this same means he lifted his whole organization out of the ordinary house-to-house canvasser class. He built for each representative in his employ a prestige, a sort of personal recognition, which has already opened the door of nearly every home in North America.

From a few square feet of space in his sister's cellar has sprung a modern, sun-lit factory covering acres and acres of floor space. From a one-man business has grown an international organization of over 5000 people. His company now operates one of the largest sales forces in the country and their efforts add about $15,000,000 every year to the total annual volume of industrial business in New England.

THE "OPEN SESAME"

Advertising was the "Open Sesame" which swung wide so many doors. On a printed page he told his story in a million homes at once . . . and his 4500 salesmen found their product and their company well known when they arrived. From an expenditure of $3500, in 1918, this company's annual advertising appropriation has grown to approximately $400,000.

About Woman's Love

By DR. BRICE BELDEN

WOMAN'S love is anything but [illegible]

[illegible] without love.

A woman never can. That is, [illegible] need not necessarily flow toward a man [illegible] of the opposite sex. Many women go without love for a man—excepting that for father, brother or a male relative—but they cannot then well do without an outpouring of affection toward some other non-human object, even if it be a pet animal, or music, art, religion or a cause of some kind to which they submerge themselves with whole-hearted fervor.

It is well known that women who experience unhappiness in love for the opposite sex often take up [illegible] work or professional nursing [illegible] The woman finds such substitution possible because her love consists in protecting the object she loves and in guarding it with jealous care.

A man, on the other hand, does not [illegible] to find a substitute for [illegible] when his quest for love [illegible]

[illegible] most modest, [illegible]

[illegible] love—and [illegible] her love [illegible] her thoughts and attention every single [illegible] of her day.

A woman really needs to love more than she needs being loved, while a man is principally concerned with bestowing love and may find being loved an interference at times with his other masculine activities.

This tremendous compelling force to be loved often leads a woman to make useless sacrifices. She seems to believe that if she proves her love through deeds of devotion and thoughtfulness she will thereby elicit [illegible] that it will be directed to herself.

Often therefore women love more [illegible] than is good for them. By so doing they court disappointment.

And disappointment in love is a serious thing to happen to any woman.

FAMOUS LOVERS

By COZETTE DOUGLASS

THE women whom Louis XIV selected to be his mistresses were invariably women of brilliance [illegible] and beauty and each [illegible] her peculiar influence on the history of the country.

Madame de Montespan was the successor of the de la Valliere in the king's fickle affections, but she retained her position through [illegible] despicable [illegible] and [illegible].

Madame Montespan had been educated in the Convent of St. Marie [illegible] Saintes, and at the age of [illegible] she became maid-of-honor of the queen, Maria Theresa. [illegible] after entering the service of the queen she married the Marquis of Montespan who was a year younger than herself. She was a brilliant and haughty beauty, but in addition she was also a cultivated and amusing talker.

With all her brilliance and wit Madame Montespan was a firm believer in witchcraft and as at this time La Voisin, the famous French sorceress was enjoying great popularity, Montespan became one of her followers. It was from La Voisin that Montespan received the terrible love powders which she managed to give to Louis. She was convinced that the "black mass" would aid her in her ambitions and therefore went through this horrible ceremony.

In 1667 she gained her end, for in July of that year she became the king's mistress.

Her husband astounded the court by openly resenting his wife's position, and created quite a scandal. He even went to the length of wearing mourning for his wife. Finally, he was banished from Paris and was given the sum of 100,000 crowns for his silence.

When Louis' affections showed signs of cooling, Montespan again [illegible] to magic, [illegible] no avail. When absolution was refused the king, Montespan [illegible] the [illegible] and was [illegible] the [illegible] for a short time. However, [illegible] she was displaced by Madame de Maintenon she was made [illegible] of the queen's [illegible] [illegible] her [illegible] and [illegible] her a [illegible] for the [illegible] apartments [illegible].

Montespan's connection with La Voisin became known and it was only through the efforts of Madame Maintenon that the affair was [illegible] and scandal prevented.

Also through the efforts of Madame Maintenon, Montespan's seven children were legitimatized.

The last years of Montespan's life were spent in a convent. The king granted her a pension of half a million francs. She spent vast sums on charity and hospitals. On her death Louis forbade her children to wear mourning.

Legend has it that during her last years Montespan were bracelets, garters and a belt with iron points. In sharp contrast to her earlier extravagances her table was most frugal and only the coarsest of linen was used. She so dreaded death and darkness that she always slept with lights burning and was constantly surrounded by women whom she urged to talk constantly so that if she awoke during the night she would have no time for reflection.

A sordid, sorry ending to a life crammed full of intrigue, romance and extravagance.

That was four years ago. We never received notice that Alabama had changed its mind.

We imagined feebly that Alabama was not one of those fickle sovereign states that changed its mind every century or so.

But, now, when Alabama forgets its 24 votes for Oscar and bolts its radio program, we are forced to admit that nothing in this land is solid and stationary but hitching posts. And they are out of date.

EFFECTIVE ENGLISH

By BRUNO LESSING

A READER asks, "Can you [illegible] a book [illegible] how to [illegible] English [illegible]."

It is therefore [illegible] to [illegible] express his [illegible] the best of [illegible].

[illegible] cannot be found in one or [illegible] thousand books. It lies entirely in the mind of the writer. If there is anything effective in the [illegible] it is because there is something effective in the writer's mind.

There are books from which one may acquire the rules of grammar, of syntax and prosody and rhetoric, which govern the mechanical operation of writing. It is important to know these rules. But, in themselves, these rules do not make the writing effective.

Then there are books on style in writing. Style is even more important than rules. But style, after all, reflects only the personality of the writer. His soul, so to speak. "Le style c'est l'homme," said a famous Frenchman. Which means that the style is the man.

CUTTER ENJOYS 'WHITE FLEET' TRAVELING

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Wall Street writer says: "Victor M. Cutter, president of United Fruit Co., frequently takes extended trips on boats of the big White Fleet to the company's properties in Cuba and Central America. Occasionally he encounters amusing incidents in his conversations with the ship's crew, who are not always aware of his identity. One rainy afternoon he came across a steward laying rubber matting in the hallway to keep water from the passengers' shoes from untidying the floor. Cutter asked the steward why he was taking such particular pains and the response was that the 'big boss, Mr. Cutter,' was aboard and the captain had given orders that the boat should be kept extra ship shape.

"The next day Cutter saw the steward again and asked him if he had met the 'big boss' and he said he had not. The following day Cutter encountered the same steward, whereupon the steward's face turned pale and he said: 'Mr. Cutter, I never was so embarrassed in my life. But I'm going to capitalize this experience and send an item in to a paper which pays $3 for narrations of most embarrassing experiences.'"

Harvey S. Firestone is thus praised: "Born on a farm near Columbiana, Ohio, December 20, 1868, and successively bookkeeper, salesman and sales manager, it was while demonstrating a rubber-tired buggy in Detroit that Harvey S. Firestone foresaw the vast possibilities in rubber tires, and not long afterwards he entered that business for himself in Chicago.

"Within a few years he sold out at a large profit, and in 1900 went to Akron. He soon became one of the leaders in the industry. Today he continues to be the active head of the largest concern in the world exclusively devoted to the manufacture of tires and tire accessories.

"Firestone built a home community for his workers, gave them a clubhouse, an athletic field and a 36-hole golf club, organized a bank, and instituted a model stock-owning-savings plan for his employes. Mr. Firestone saw the necessity of controlling his factories' sources of supply, and he purchased cotton mills in Massachusetts, established buying centers at the rubber plantations in Malaya, and now in Liberia, is clearing and cultivating thousands of acres of virgin rubber lands, which, when fully yielding, may make America independent of foreign sources of supply.

William Peter Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal, sailed on the United Fruit liner Ulua for a month's cruise to the West Indies.

As a result of efforts on the part of Bellows Falls, Vt., Chamber of Commerce and Fall Mountain Electric Co., which is a part of New England Power Association, one of the largest feldspar grinding mills in the country will be in Walpole, N. H. It will be owned and operated by the American Mineral Products Co., and its entire output will be used by Eureka Flint & Spar Co. of Trenton.

International Paper & Power Co. has been organized as a Massachusetts voluntary association through formal filing with the Commissioner of Corporations, Henry F. Long, of a declaration of trust, dated November 1, 1928, which sets forth the plan and agreement for reorganization of International Paper Co.

Roger D. Lapham, president of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co., says the Panama Canal has been the means of cutting millions of dollars annually from the nation's transportation bill and has developed extensive new markets for Americans. Said if increase in traffic is at the same rate for next 10 years it has been for the past five, the canal will have paid in tolls more than entire cost of construction.

RADIO-KEITH PLAN IS ASSURED OF RATIFYING

Ratification of the plan for the formation of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation was assured by announcement today that holders of over 51 per cent of the outstanding over 51 per cent of Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation had already deposited their stock under the plan and deposit agreement. Although the first announcement gave stockholders until Nov. 15 to deposit, the plan has now been declared operative because the required proportion of deposits has already been exceeded.

BAYLIES URGES CO-OPERATION IN TEXTILES

Danville, Va., Nov. 12—Further co-operation between Southern and Northern cotton manufacturers is the object of a Southern tour begun today by Lincoln Baylies of Boston, recently elected president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

LINCOLN BAYLIES

Mr. Baylies, who, in his speech at the convention of the association in Boston, October 25, urged greater co-operation by textile men throughout the country, will visit in this city, Charlotte, N. C., and Greenville, S. C., and later will go to other Southern textile communities.

Although the organization of which Mr. Baylies is the head has members in 27 states, the majority of them are in the North. In the spring of 1926 the National Association and the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which represents mainly Southern textile men, held a joint convention in Atlantic City.

The joint convention was but a part of the activities which have been going on to continue the co-operation between the manufacturers. At the present time, in the opinion of Mr. Baylies, there is a greater realization of the need of co-operation.

"The cotton industry," declares President Baylies, "is learning that the days have gone by when a mill could play a lone hand and win. It is learning the benefits and even the necessity of a more open exchange of experience and certain types of production figures."

In the election of Mr. Baylies the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers continued to follow the precedent established some years ago of electing as president one of the younger leaders in the industry. Mr. Baylies, who is a partner in the selling house of Amory, Browne & Co., Boston, is 35 years old and has had considerable practical experience in manufacturing, having worked in New England mills and studied merchandising in New York.

M'NEEL FINDS UNCERTAINTY REMOVED

McNeel's Financial Service declares that the election removes the element of uncertainty in finance, lays the foundation for business confidence, and provides the background for a continuation of prosperity.

McNeel's says in its latest issue. "The outburst of speculative enthusiasm in the stock market following the election is sufficient commentary on the sentiment of the financial and business communities towards the election of Mr. Hoover. It is accepted as giving a guarantee for another four years of sound financial and economic policies on the part of our Government. While politics may or may not be an important factor in the business and financial affairs of the nation, yet the absolute knowledge that we are guaranteed sound policies on the part of the Government lays the foundation for confidence on the part of business men and that psychological factor is a highly important one in determining the future of financial and business affairs.

"It cannot be expected that we shall have a great 'Hoover boom' built on top of the so-called 'Coolidge boom,' in either finance or business. In the four years from the date of the election of Mr. Coolidge to the date of the election of Mr. Hoover, there has obviously been a tremendous change in financial and business conditions and in the average level of security prices and credit conditions.

"The country as a whole has made great strides forward. It would be almost absurd to predict that the next four years can see any such repetition. At the same time there is every reason to believe that the background is provided for a continuation of our prosperity, and it is to be expected also that stocks of sound, well-managed, progressive companies will continue to increase in value and that prices of such stocks will continue to work higher, though they temporarily may fluctuate widely owing to technical market conditions."

Cotton in Egypt

Alexandria, Egypt, Nov. 12 (AP)—The government estimate of the amount of cotton ginned is 2,405,568 cantars. (The cantar is the Oriental hundred weight, having a wide range of value, but commonly between 100 and 130 pounds.)

FLIGHTS and FLIERS by George W. Hamblin

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Another new aviation company has made its appearance with the euphonious name of "Sunset Airways." Val Chick is president of the new company, Harold Christensen, chief pilot, and George Barry, chief salesman.

The Mendon Air Meet is still in progress ending tonight. Harland F. Banks of the National Air Pageant Association is running the meet, and P. A. Millis of Mendon is owner of the field, which will be known as the Mendon Airport.

The pilots of Skyways, Inc., are being congratulated on the excellent flying done on Tuesday night with the Boston Evening American election signals on the bottom wings of their plane. Many persons may consider night flying dangerous but it was only work for the Skyways boys. We went up on one trip with Lieut. "Art" Langley and it was certainly enjoyable.

Auggie Pabst, operations manager of the Boston Airport Corp. took a party of two down to Curtiss Field in a Whirlwind Travel Air, and reports a rough trip. A 40-mile head wind was Auggie's chief worry, and a wind of that strength generally means rough air.

DODGED TREE TOPS

Lieut. Adolph M. Backstrom, another of B. A. C.'s pilots, went down to Curtiss field in the Fairchild when the weather was so thick that the birds didn't even fly. Frank D. Le Man was with him, and they dodged tree tops most of the way down. Backstrom returned with a three-quarters tail wind, and made the 180 miles in about two hours.

With the temperature on the ground at the Boston Airport hovering around 33 degrees, Lieut. Ralph T. Wickford, chief pilot of the B. A. C., took an OXX-6 Travel Air up for a test hop, and rose to 3000 feet. "Got a bit chilly up there," said "Wick" later.

Olcott Payson, one of Skyways directors and pilots, likes his Stearman a lot. "Ollie" purchased the ship from Andy Ivanoff, when the latter decided that he wanted 300 horses in front of him rather than 200. The last we heard from Andy, who is touring the country with Fred Ames in Fred's Whirlwind Travel Air, demonstrating Tom Croce's now famous safety stick, was that the two of them had hit Texas and were turning for the west coast and finally home.

TEACH AVIATION

The North Attleboro Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the Curtiss Flying Service, is planning an aviation technical school, with classes enrolling November 15. This course, which will be given in the North Attleboro high school, will include every phase of the technical side of aviation, and is to be strongly recommended for those who wish to find out the why and if of an airplane. Please note that this course WILL NOT teach you to fly, and you will not be an experienced pilot when you finish it. The school 's purely technical. For further information inquire of the North Attleboro Board of Trade.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Questions pertaining to aviation will be answered in this column every week. Address your queries to "Flights and Fliers," Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.)

Q.—I am not interested at present in becoming a pilot, but I do wish I could learn more about the flying game on the mechanical end. Can you recommend a school near my home that would teach me the essential details of airplane mechanics?—A. S. L., Pawtucket, R. I.

A.—The technical course, as stated above, that will be held in the North Attleboro high school, working on old Navy planes, is the nearest school of its kind, operating nights, to your home.

"Lest We Forget"

Armistice Day

As we observe Armistice Day, for the first time as a legal holiday, our thoughts turn to the eleventh day of November in 1918.

We remember the relief which came with the discontinuance of the most enormous conflict ever entered into by men and how a great load was lifted from human hearts the world over.

The morning was clear and cold. The Argonne offensive had been in progress. There was the most intense anxiety in millions of homes. And then came the glad news! The guns had boomed for the last time. OUR lads were coming home!

Many went to France who will sleep there until the Resurrection morn. We recall THEIR sacrifices and we remember THEM in prayer in the minutes of silence. More came back ill or crippled. Some have spent all these years in veterans' hospitals. If we forget THEM we have broken faith with ALL.

But the great majority of America's soldiers and sailors of the World War returned safe and sound, healthier and heavier, greatly enriched by the experience, better men than ever, better equipped for the tasks of peace and the duties of citizenship.

These men, banded together in patriotic organizations like the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are the salt and savor of the Republic. THEY appreciate, better than most, the blessings which have been bestowed upon their homeland. THEY realize, better than most, the dangers which lie in "internationalism." THEY know that military and naval preparedness—preparedness for DEFENSE—are essential to American safety and American progress.

Touched with sadness at the hour of 11, as we recall those who died and those who mourn, Armistice Day nevertheless is a day of thanksgiving. It is not a day for merry-making, but a time for reconsecration. Acknowledging the valor of our soldiers—alive or dead the debt we owe them can never be repaid in full—we renew our pledges to the Nation.

We can find strength and support for these pledges, perhaps, if we will recall those nineteen months of the most intense effort ever put forth by Americans in behalf of America.

The outstanding characteristics of our people in those days—and of ALL our people—were courage, cheerfulness, comradeship. There was neither room nor patience—THEN—for the coward, the slacker or the self-seeker.

A little of the same spirit, a little of the same willingness to give of our best to the community, a reawakening of patriotic impulses which sometimes appear to have fallen asleep, and we shall come nearer to realizing the high ideals which were ours ten years ago.

Thus we shall keep faith and, keeping faith:

"Keep Freedom aloft on her golden throne,
With Justice and Truth to guide her alone."

The Spirit of Sport

SOME Women Seem to Misunderstand It

Women are going in for outdoor sport in large numbers this year, but many of them seem to misunderstand the spirit of it. Out in Indiana, the other day, a rolling-pin throwing contest was held. Distance and accuracy were the counts. One woman hurled the pin twice the usual distance and clipped a bystander on the nose. The contest was stopped forthwith, and no prizes were awarded.

By all the rules and traditions the woman who flung the rolling-pin so far and so well should have been given first prize. A rolling-pin is a weapon. The competition was on a par with the male sport of hurling the javelin.

What a militant wife this woman whose arm was so strong and whose eye was so true would make! Yet the news dispatches did not even mention her name.

On the other hand, Thomas Folino, a caddy, brought suit in Middletown, N. Y., against Edward Christie, an Englewood golfer. Christie had driven a ball against Folino's head, damaging it in the caddy's opinion to the extent of $10,000. A jury decided against him. Crowning a caddy would seem to be one of the hazards of the Warwick course.

The golfer is receiving contgratulations, while the woman who broke a record and a nose with a rolling-pin will probably find herself barred from future athletic events.

Truly, the girls seem at times to lack the true sporting spirit.

Mail Order Marriage

Who Said the Woman Pays? Not Nowadays!

Sight unseen, Helen Schroeder pledged herself to marry Charles L. Steenberg by mail. All she wanted was a man to pay her father's debts and for that service she would wed him. So Steenberg came from Trumansburg to New York, paid the debts and they were married. She was twenty. He was forty. Now he is seeking annulment, and she offers no objection.

When the minister asked if she loved the bridegroom, the bride replied with a negative, explaining that she pitied him. She pitied him so deeply that on their bridal night she remained with her mother and told him to go to a hotel. If pity is akin to love, it must be a mighty poor and very distant relation.

Cupid is usually pictured as a blind god, but on that job he must have been deaf and dumb, too. Who was it said that the woman pays? Not nowadays!

Our Heroes

It is the custom of republics to idolize their war heroes.

This nation has had a whole string of war hero Presidents: Washington, Jackson, Harrison, Taylor, Grant and Roosevelt.

They were all military leaders.

Now we have a war hero President of a different kind, Herbert Hoover.

He made his reputation not in leading armies, but in healing the wounds of war.

Perhaps it is a hopeful sign for the world, a symbol of the changing ideals of democracy.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay abed distressed over a flood of bills but came a note from William S. Hart to visit him at his Horseshoe ranch. And recalled a year ago this day was troubled more than ever in my life and for foolish reasons, sat up, singing merrily in the bath.

It come on to rain in torrents and Marshall Neilan, the director, came and we sat watching at the window and recalled a typical Webster cartoon thrill of wading barefoot in the gutter after a fresh spring shower. Out after the rain and put in to see Russell Patterson, the illustrator, who was away.

In the evening to a dinner party and sitting next a lady harpist tried to see if her fair fingers were calloused from plucking strings, but could not and too shy to ask. Then to "Goin' Home," a stirring play, and talked to Antoinette Perry, so well remembered in Warfield's "The Music Master." To bed late.

THE classy clientele among Broadway theaters and cafes has long been referred to as the "carriage trade." Nothing is so swank to New Yorkers as the old-fashioned horse-drawn carriage. When a Wall St. operator has a heavy loss he "takes one on the nose."

Broadway will have—Parkins, my horse—a block long soda and sandwich counter this spring. It is planned to have an entrance on the Main Stem running through to 6th ave. Sixty clerks will serve 98 varieties of soft drinks and even a large variety of sandwiches.

IN a cellar cafeteria in the Forties, noontime patrons are regaled with strolling cabaret performers. High-class singing and dancing acts are changed monthly. One lady stopped to sing at my table just as a sandwich filled with mayonnaise backfired over my coat front. All I could do was to look wistful.

NEW YORK dog fanciers for the first time in 10 years saw a litter of pug dog puppies last week. They were on display in a dog shop window and were imported from California. They sold like the hot cake is supposed to sell. But doesn't.

THE most popular pooch of the moment in New York is the English Sealyham. It is a long-haired chubby specimen several hands high, with the resigned expression of a tired old man—extremely affectionate with children, but a terror in battle.

HARRY CRADDOCK is supposed to have made the last legal cocktail in America at the old Holland House bar and then removing his apron and roaching his hair went up the gangplank the same night for England. He now reigns at the Savoy in London.

AND the man reputed to have made the first illegal cocktail in America, timing it a second after the law was to go into effect—a commentary on what he considered another travesty of justice—now lectures on alcoholic horrors.

BLACK silk shirts with collars to match and snow-white ties have hit Broadway, but with only mild enthusiasm. The sartorial notion is reported a product of Hollywood. Actor stuff.

FOR the college cutups they are showing an overcoat of snow-white fur as a successor to the raccoon coat. And what a break for a world weary moth!

IN downtown office buildings at noon appear venerable aproned women with ponderous baskets of fruits, candies, chewing gum and such to hawk among stenographers, clerks and office boys. They are known as Apple Marys and extend credit to all. Nearly all prosper in this inconspicuous calling.

NEW YORK has more than 100 newspaper stands and small shops operated by the blind. Many are said to make $5000 a year. The public invariably and deservedly overpays the blind.

IN a Texas trade magazine: "New York is overrun with slick newspaper columnists who seem to think they know it all, writing this way today and that way tomorrow. They are the eels of journalism."

Don't you mean the heels of journalism, Mister?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE rules that worked for Dad won't always serve for son in 1928.

For instance, there's that venerable axiom—"BE SURE YOU'RE RIGHT, THEN GO AHEAD." That was great advice for generations who had plenty of time and not much competition, but it's dangerous dope for these more strenuous days.

WE CAN LONGER AFFORD TO MAKE SURE WE'RE RIGHT BEFORE WE GO AHEAD. There isn't time. While we're trying to make up our minds the chance may pass, or the other fellow may jump in and grab it.

Moreover we are now doing many new and experimental things for which there is no precedent. It is impossible to determine in advance whether these are safe or profitable things to do. Somebody has to do them for the first time and often it's up to us. If we want to keep moving with the crowd we must face a certain amount of risk and we must be prepared to face that risk.

We must prepare for modern life as a fighter prepares for the ring. Life is our sparring partner and its blows fall thick and fast. We must train ourselves to duck and dodge, take advantage of every opening, make lightning decisions, be agile of heel and brain.

Such training isn't easy. We must often revise all our habits and attitudes. We must eliminate much self-indulgence — little tricks of dawdling and day dreaming. We must tighten up and speed up our mental muscles as a fighter speeds and tightens up the muscles of his body. We must keep ourselves fit by tremendous discipline. We must develop our powers of decision as he develops his blows.

Sometimes those quick, snap decisions will be wrong. But the chances are that they won't be wrong any oftener than the slow, cautious decisions of grandpa's time. And they'll at least be decisions. It's better to make a few wrong decisions than never to make any at all.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

"Lest We Forget"

Armistice Day

As we observe Armistice Day, for the first time as a legal holiday, our thoughts turn to the eleventh day of November in 1918.

We remember the relief which came with the discontinuance of the most enormous conflict ever entered into by men and how a great load was lifted from human hearts the world over.

The morning was clear and cold. The Argonne offensive had been in progress. There was the most intense anxiety in millions of homes. And then came the glad news! The guns had boomed for the last time. OUR lads were coming home!

Many went to France who will sleep there until the Resurrection morn. We recall THEIR sacrifices and we remember THEM in prayer in the minutes of silence. More came back ill or crippled. Some have spent all these years in veterans' hospitals. If we forget THEM we have broken faith with ALL.

But the great majority of America's soldiers and sailors of the World War returned safe and sound, healthier and heavier, greatly enriched by the experience, better men than ever, better equipped for the tasks of peace and the duties of citizenship.

These men, banded together in patriotic organizations like the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are the salt and savor of the Republic. THEY appreciate, better than most, the blessings which have been bestowed upon their homeland. THEY realize, better than most, the dangers which lie in "internationalism." THEY know that military and naval preparedness—preparedness for DEFENSE—are essential to American safety and American progress.

Touched with sadness at the hour of 11, as we recall those who died and those who mourn, Armistice Day nevertheless is a day of thanksgiving. It is not a day for merry-making, but a time for reconsecration. Acknowledging the valor of our soldiers—alive or dead the debt we owe them can never be repaid in full—we renew our pledges to the Nation.

We can find strength and support for these pledges, perhaps, if we will recall those nineteen months of the most intense effort ever put forth by Americans in behalf of America.

The outstanding characteristics of our people in those days—and of ALL our people—were courage, cheerfulness, comradeship. There was neither room nor patience—THEN—for the coward, the slacker or the self-seeker.

A little of the same spirit, a little of the same willingness to give of our best to the community, a reawakening of patriotic impulses which sometimes appear to have fallen asleep, and we shall come nearer to realizing the high ideals which were ours ten years ago.

Thus we shall keep faith and, keeping faith:

> "Keep Freedom aloft on her golden throne,
> With Justice and Truth to guide her alone."

The Spirit of Sport

SOME Women Seem to Misunderstand It

Women are going in for outdoor sport in large numbers this year, but many of them seem to misunderstand the spirit of it. Out in Indiana, the other day, a rolling-pin throwing contest was held. Distance and accuracy were the counts. One woman hurled the pin twice the usual distance and clipped a bystander on the nose. The contest was stopped forthwith, and no prizes were awarded.

By all the rules and traditions the woman who flung the rolling-pin so far and so well should have been given first prize. A rolling-pin is a weapon. The competition was on a par with the male sport of hurling the javelin.

What a militant wife this woman whose arm was so strong and whose eye was so true would make! Yet the news dispatches did not even mention her name.

On the other hand, Thomas Folino, a caddy, brought suit in Middletown, N. Y., against Edward Christie, an Englewood golfer. Christie had driven a ball against Folino's head, damaging it in the caddy's opinion to the extent of $10,000. A jury decided against him. Crowning a caddy would seem to be one of the hazards of the Warwick course.

The golfer is receiving contgratulations, while the woman who broke a record and a nose with a rolling-pin will probably find herself barred from future athletic events.

Truly, the girls seem at times to lack the true sporting spirit.

Mail Order Marriage

Who Said the Woman Pays? Not Nowadays!

Sight unseen, Helen Schroeder pledged herself to marry Charles L. Steenberg by mail. All she wanted was a man to pay her father's debts and for that service she would wed him. So Steenberg came from Trumansburg to New York, paid the debts and they were married. She was twenty. He was forty. Now he is seeking annulment, and she offers no objection.

When the minister asked if she loved the bridegroom, the bride replied with a negative, explaining that she pitied him. She pitied him so deeply that on their bridal night she remained with her mother and told him to go to a hotel. If pity is akin to love, it must be a mighty poor and very distant relation.

Cupid is usually pictured as a blind god, but on that job he must have been deaf and dumb, too. Who was it said that the woman pays? Not nowadays!

Our Heroes

It is the custom of republics to idolize their war heroes.

This nation has had a whole string of war hero Presidents: Washington, Jackson, Harrison, Taylor, Grant and Roosevelt.

They were all military leaders.

Now we have a war hero President of a different kind, Herbert Hoover.

He made his reputation not in leading armies, but in healing the wounds of war.

Perhaps it is a hopeful sign for the world, a symbol of the changing ideals of democracy.

New York Day by Day
by
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay abed distressed over a flood of bills but came a note from William S. Hart to visit him at his Horseshoe ranch. And recalled a year ago this day was troubled more than ever in my life and for foolish reasons, so up, singing merrily in the bath.

It come on to rain in torrents and Marshall Neilan, the director, came and we sat watching at the window and recalled a typical Webster cartoon thrill of wading barefoot in the gutter after a fresh spring shower. Out after the rain and put in to see Russell Patterson, the illustrator, who was away.

In the evening to a dinner party and sitting next a lady harpist tried to see if her fair fingers were calloused from plucking strings, but could not and too shy to ask. Then to "Goin' Home," a stirring play, and talked to Antoinette Perry, so well remembered in Warfield's "The Music Master." To bed late.

THE classy clientele among Broadway theaters and cafes has long been referred to as the "carriage trade." Nothing is so swank to New Yorkers as the old-fashioned horse-drawn carriage. When a Wall St. operator has a heavy loss he "takes one on the nose."

Broadway will have—Parkins, my horse—a block long soda and sandwich counter this spring. It is planned to have an entrance on the Main Stem running through to 6th ave. Sixty clerks will serve 98 varieties of soft drinks and even a large variety of sandwiches.

IN a cellar cafeteria in the Forties, noontime patrons are regaled with strolling cabaret performers. High-class singing and dancing acts are changed monthly. One lady stopped to sing at my table just as a sandwich filled with mayonnaise backfired over my coat front. All I could do was to look wistful.

NEW YORK dog fanciers for the first time in 10 years saw a litter of pug dog puppies last week. They were on display in a dog shop window and were imported from California. They sold like the hot cake is supposed to sell. But doesn't.

THE most popular pooch of the moment in New York is the English Sealyham. It is a long-haired chubby specimen several hands high, with the resigned expression of a tired old man—extremely affectionate with children, but a terror in battle.

HARRY CRADDOCK is supposed to have made the last legal cocktail in America at the old Holland House bar and then removing his apron and roaching his hair went up the gangplank the same night for England. He now reigns at the Savoy in London.

AND the man reputed to have made the first illegal cocktail in America, timing it a second after the law was to go into effect—a commentary on what he considered another travesty of justice—now lectures on alcoholic horrors.

BLACK silk shirts with collars to match and snow-white ties have hit Broadway, but with only mild enthusiasm. The sartorial notion is reported a product of Hollywood. Actor stuff.

FOR the college cutups they are showing an overcoat of snow-white fur as a successor to the raccoon coat. And what a break for a world weary moth!

IN downtown office buildings at noon appear venerable aproned women with ponderous baskets of fruits, candies, chewing gum and such to hawk among stenographers, clerks and office boys. They are known as Apple Marys and extend credit to all. Nearly all prosper in this inconspicuous calling.

NEW YORK has more than 100 newspaper stands and small shops operated by the blind. Many are said to make $5000 a year. The public invariably and deservedly overpays the blind.

IN a Texas trade magazine: "New York is overrun with slick newspaper columnists who seem to think they know it all, writing this way today and that way tomorrow. They are the eels of journalism."

Don't you mean the heels of journalism, Mister?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE rules that worked for Dad won't always serve for son in 1928.

For instance, there's that venerable axiom—"BE SURE YOU'RE RIGHT, THEN GO AHEAD." That was great advice for generations who had plenty of time and not much competition, but it's dangerous dope for these more strenuous days.

WE CAN LONGER AFFORD TO MAKE SURE WE'RE RIGHT BEFORE WE GO AHEAD. There isn't time. While we're trying to make up our minds the chance may pass, or the other fellow may jump in and grab it.

Moreover we are now doing many new and experimental things for which there is no precedent. It is impossible to determine in advance whether these are safe or profitable things to do. Somebody has to do them for the first time and often it's up to us. If we want to keep moving with the crowd we must face a certain amount of risk and we must be prepared to face that risk.

We must prepare for modern life as a fighter prepares for the ring. Life is our sparring partner and its blows fall thick and fast. We must train ourselves to duck and dodge, take advantage of every opening, make lightning decisions, be agile of heel and brain.

Such training isn't easy. We must often revise all our habits and attitudes. We must eliminate much self-indulgence — little tricks of dawdling and day dreaming. We must tighten up and speed up our mental muscles as a fighter speeds and tightens up the muscles of his body. We must keep ourselves fit by tremendous discipline. We must develop our powers of decision as he develops his blows.

Sometimes those quick, snap decisions will be wrong. But the chances are that they won't be wrong any oftener than the slow, cautious decisions of grandpa's time. And they'll at least be decisions. It's better to make a few wrong decisions than never to make any at all.
